1. Charlotte, a tale of truth,
By Mrs Rowson, of the New-Theatre
Philadelphia.

Second American edition—Price 75 cents.

[The rapid sale of the First Edition of this interesting novel, in a few months, is the best proof of its merit.]

Extract from the Critical Review, April 1791, p. 468.

It may be a tale of truth, for it is not unnatural, and it is a tale of real distress—Charlotte by the artifice of a teacher, recommended to a school from humanity rather than a conviction of her integrity of the regularity of her former conduct, is enticed to be governess, and accompanies a young officer to America—The marriage ceremony, if not forgotten, is postponed, and Charlotte dies a martyr to the inconstancy of her lover, and treachery of his friend—The situations are artless and affecting—the descriptions natural and pathetic; we should feel for Charlotte if such a period ever existed, who for an error, scarcely, perhaps deserved to sever a punishment. If it is a fiction, poetic justice is not, we think, properly distributed.

EXTRACT FROM THE PREFACE.

The authors have presumed to affix to their title the epithet Impartial; and the reason is, because they cannot charge themselves with feeling the smallest bias in any party, but that of truth and liberty; and they flatter themselves, that their readers will find not only every circumstance fairly represented, but every censurable action, wherever were the authors or actors, marked in its proper colors. If it was necessary to make a declaration of their own principles, they would say, they are neither Tory nor republican—they love liberty as English whigs, and execute every criminal act by which so noble a cause is endangered and disgraced.

"In the present ferment of the public mind, they cannot flatter themselves with the hope of seeing this claim universally acknowledged. On the contrary, they are well assured that these pages will not be acceptable to the zealous of either party. But when time shall dissipate the clouds of political deception, they with some confidence expect that verdict from public opinion, which candor and moderation seldom fail to receive."

IT has been matter of wonder and regret that this most learned and valuable work, so highly prized by the learned, both curious and serious, has never been translated, and thereby the bulk of readers have been deprived of a work of the greatest entertainment and utility; in which by the Labors of the learned of various ages and nations, the Sacred Scriptures are cleared of the contradictions and absurdities of modern translations, and the ancient manners, metaphors, allegories, and figures are illustrated in such a way, as to unite the most rational entertainment with the most useful instruction; & to discover the foundation true philosophy, to all ages, and that their children will be taught derived their knowledge from the Sacred Scriptures, which contain the seeds of the sciences valuable to man.

This work is proposed to the Public the following

CONDITIONS
It is supposed the whole will be completed in four volumes, large quarto will be set to the press as follows:—The first number shall be subscribed for, & the expense.

Lundin M'Kechie,
Taylor, Stay Corset & Hat
Maker,

No. 26, Chestnut Street, between Second & Front Streets.

RETURNS his most grateful thanks to those who have honored him with their employment, and begs leave to assure them, that from his extensive correspondence in London, he will at all times have it in his power to furnish them with every article in his profession in the most excellent manner of the best quality; and for the better accommodation of his customers he has taken in a partnership in the Taylor and Hat making Business, John Sloan, from London.

N. B. He makes the famous Patent Stays for the Apparatus Spinal Extensions, in the use of which he has been very successful in curing distortions in Young People, and has never failed to cure when applications were made in due time, and now begs leave to present to the public a proof of the happy effects.

In September last, James Dodds, late of Britain, applied to me respecting one of his children (a child two years and an half old) who had three or the lower vertebrae of her Spine curved, was very much her body bending, could not be made without paying the use of her lower limbs and one of which formed contracting, and had no relief in a lying posture. The parents informed me that she had been for five or six months, and could account for it no other way than a weakness brought on by the whooping cough, previous to which the child had been active & healthy.

Upon the 23rd of September I fitted the child with a pair of patent stays and an apparatus Spinal Extensions; in a few days she seemed perfectly easy, could lie upright and be carried about without complaint.

The distortion is now scarcely perceptible; the child stands or sits upright and walk with a free assistance. This is attested by the mother of the child who has remained since the cure for the benefit of my attendants, the father having gone to the country.

The above a just case of my child's cure.
BETTY MOODS

N. B. Editor of this Gazette has a child under the care of Mr. M'Kechie, who has worn the stays apparatus for some time, and the stays apparatus, but the progress is not a fair one, is very flattering.
