

MARRIED last evening by the Right Rev. Bishop White, Mr. SAMUEL REEF, one of the Editors of the "Philadelphia Gazette," to Miss SARAH POYNTELL, daughter of Mr. William Poyntell, all of this city.

Yesterday morning at the Friends Meeting House in Pine street, Mr. James Wills Clement, merchant to Miss Hannah Coats, daughter of Mr. Samuel Coats, of this city.

At Trenton, on Tuesday, last, by the Rev. D. Armstrong, Mr. Joshua Allen, Merchant of this city, to Miss Ann Moore, of that place.

For the 24 hours preceding Wednesday morning, there were 14 deaths in Baltimore. Total number in the hospital sick with the prevailing disease, 36. Convalescents, 16. Discharged cured, 5.

Some of the inhabitants having begun to remove into Baltimore, the Board of Health have cautioned them against being in too great haste, and observe, that some few cases of the Fever occur daily.

A letter from Charleston, S. C. received in Boston, dated the 14th ult. (one day later than the report of an insurrection having taken place there) is perfectly silent upon that subject; it contains however the following pleasing extract: "We have (unexpectedly) good news from Georgia, it is pretty certain Mr. Jefferson will not get the votes from that state; this is not light rumour, but solid foundation—in this state I am sanguine we shall do justice to the federal cause."

A letter from Plymouth to a gentleman in Boston, says, "Arrived this evening, scir. Sally Barret, from Dominica. Capt. B. confirms the New-York account of the French having taken CURRACOA, and MASSACREING the Americans, particularly Capt. Hiller, of the Pickering, his officers and crew."

Extract of a letter from Hamburg, dated August 15.

"Every ship passing Altona is now boarded by a Danish officer. Two days ago an English ship was hailed, and returning an insolent answer, the mate and another person were taken out and degraded so severely that the mate's life is supposed to be. The merchants at Altona have voluntarily embargoed their vessels till the present dispute with England is adjudged."

A Circuit Court, for the county of Fayette, before the Honorable Joseph Yates, and Honorable Thomas Smith, Esquires, Judges of the Supreme Court will be held on Monday the 13th instant, in the borough of Union.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT seems to be the lot of our Independence that the French never will let us alone to exercise and enjoy it. They tampered with old Doctor Franklin, and coaxed and wheedled him till they got him willing to accept a scrap of it for the country—a little dirty soap, for the terms would have been such as to keep us poor and dependent on France. It was her sly policy to let Britain hold the Western Territory, as that would keep the United States afraid of the English, and often at loggerheads with them. We were to be denied the fishery, that silver mine of New-England, where every God-Fish swims with half a pintareen in his mouth, that nursery of seamen, our naval militia, that is destined to defend our commerce against either France or Britain. The true patriots Jay and Adams, whom neitherattery nor gold could buy, spurned at the idea and insisted on independence absolute and unlimited first, and then on the Western Territory and the Fisheries. They prevailed; but France saw in our weakness and diffusions after the peace, the means of making us her colonies. Accordingly, she fomented by her emissaries, (of whom she had some pensioned in the town of Boston) all the discontents that the confusions and distresses of the war so naturally left to ferment in the first period of peace. It is known that the French Minister made the most he could of the clamour about the commutation to the army, and that he was even heard to say, that certain members of the old Congress who voted for it, would be turned out, and that certain persons would be their successors. So in fact it happened.

It is also remarkable that when our many sufferings and fears led the people to adopt the new Constitution, every Frenchman and every man in any connection with or dependence on the French agents in this country was anti-federal. If the French monarchy had stood, it would have manifested the same spirit with the Republic, to muddle with our politics, though it is probable the forms of decency would have been rather more carefully observed. But it is the character, the interest, & unchanging policy of France, to attempt to acquire and to exercise a controlling influence in our affairs: Our weakness, our animosities against G. Britain, and our divisions and parties, afforded to her "diplomatic skill," the temptations and the means to effect this design. No matter who rules in France, whether king or mob, it is alike her plan and her pursuit to stir up a faction here, and to raise that faction up to controul the the government. Thus she expects to wound and weaken Great Britain in her trade, thus she expects to procure supplies and protection to the ever defenceless French Islands. Accordingly, Genet came here with war instructions in his pocket, and lying profection of peace on his lips. When coaxing & blustering and stirring up mobs in all our tea-ports, had been tried with an unexpected bad success, Mr. Adet published his blundering note full of sophistry, lies and impudence on the very week before election of electors in Philadelphia. Then it was said by all the jacobins, and by many who have been heartily ashamed of it since, that France was displeased with us on account of the British treaty, and that we must chuse a President who would have an influence with the Directory, and who would be able to avert a war.

Shameful as these ideas are, they worked like hidden poisons, and certainly turned some hundreds of votes to the Jacobin ticket. Some hundreds more were gained by openly marching a rabble of Frenchmen, sailors and wretches without property, principle or country, to the Election ground in the Liberties of Philadelphia. This was done while the French flag waved over the shabby procession. It is well known that the election in Pennsylvania was turned against the federalists by a few hundreds only. Thus in fact France very nearly chose a President, or as the 15 votes of that state would have prevented Mr. Adams from being chosen, had not luckily one in Virginia and one in North Carolina unexpectedly turned the scale, and saved the country.

Now it seems that the same game is believed by the sly Trileyard to be worth playing over again, and with better skill and more caution, to avoid the blunders of the last. It is for that reason, we are told that the negotiation is broken of on account of the British treaty, and this was intended to be announced here at the very crisis of the election.

It is cunning, but it is detected cunning, thus to time, and thus to frame the reasons for breaking off the negotiation. It is evident King Buonaparte thinks it wiser to bestow his real friendship on a Jacobin Chief, than on President Adams. It is evident that he expects a state of hostility will work the desired change in the chief magistracy of the United States. It is equally clear that he calculates that it is cheaper too, to wait till we also have a First Consul on the 4th March next, than to negotiate and promise compensation for captures, as if a Jacobin President should then come in France can have no need to make even promises, light as she makes them, to pay money or redress our injuries. So far from obligating herself to pay a farthing, she rather expects the Chief Consul of the American Republic, one, free, indivisible, (though divided) and dependant like her Cisalpine sister, would nominate in March next, and before the end of March would send Citizen Munroe on a new mission, to assure King Equality, that we consider the sacrifices we make with France, as made for the cause of liberty, as part payment of the debt of gratitude, and a proof, as well as a new cement of the affectionate ties that bind us to our sister France. This is only saying over again Munroe's very words. And Buonaparte will reply as before, that Citizen Munroe carried with him when he left Paris, the regret of that nation, and that he fears to speak of our government, altho' he repeats Barras's tender professions of regard for the American people. Then the Citizen could offer to make loans to France for the cause of liberty.

After a retrospect of the scandalous facts, is it incredible that in case of a Jacobin Presidency such would be the mission, and such the envoy. His file and sentiments are too remarkable to be forgotten. What then has this nation to do, but to avert that Independence which has been so incessantly disturbed and usurped by France, and to convince her, that her favor is fatal in the opinion of our citizens to any candidate. Let the people mark the men who are tools to her, let none such be Electors.

DOVER, SEPTEMBER 19, 1800.

MR. WAYNE, AS your paper has a more extensive circulation through this State, than any other, I wish to contradict a Jacobin lie which is gaining ground. They say, that the Methodists who form a very large proportion for the Federal interest of Kent county, intend to drop the Honourable James A. Bayard at the next election. I can with boldness contradict the mischievous and ill-founded untruth, and say, that there is not twenty voters, of that society, in the county, who will not support him with all their influence. The following is the Methodist Ticket.

- A METHODIST. KENT COUNTY. FEDERAL TICKET. Friends to Washington's Policy. Representative to Congress. James A. Bayard. Senator. James Sykes. Representatives. Nicholas Rideley. Henry Mollenloft. Manlove Emrillon. George Cummins. William Sorden. Stephen Lewis. William Warner. Levy Court Commissioners. Ebenezer Blackiston, D. C. H. Jacob Scott, L. C. H. Jonathan Hunt, M. H. Coroners.
