This Lottery will afford an elegant specimen of the private buildings to be erected in the City of Washington.—Two beautiful designs are already selected for the entire fronts on two of the public squares; from these drawings, it is proposed to erect two centre and four corner buildings, as soon as possible after this Lottery is sold, and to convey them when complete, to the fortunate adventurers, in the manner described in the scheme for the Hotel Lottery. A net deduction of five per cent. will be made to defray the necessary expenses of printing, &c. and the surplus will be made a part of the fund intended for the National University, to be erected within the City of Washington.

The drawing will commence as soon as the Tickets are sold off.—The money prizes will be payable in thirty days after it is finished, and any prizes for which fortunate numbers are not produced within twelve months after the drawing is closed are to be considered as given towards the fund for the University, it being determined to settle the whole business in a year from the ending of the drawing end to take up the bonds given as security.

The real securities given for the payment of the Prize are held by the President and two Directors of the Bank of Columbia, and are valued at more than half the amount of the Lottery.

The twenty-four gentlemen who by appointment of the late Commissioners assisted in the management of the Hotel Lottery are requested to undertake this arduous task a second time on behalf of the public; a sufficient number of these having kindly accepted, it is hoped that the friends to a National University and the other federal objects may continue to favor the design. The synopsis of one of the Colleges, to form a branch of the National Institution, is already in the press, and will be speedily published, together with its constitution.

A compleat PLAN of the whole of this important institution, compiled from a selection of the best materials, ancient and modern, will be submitted to the public whenever the same may have gone through such revisions as may be necessary to establish the perfect confidence and general approbation, so essential to its present rise and future existence for the general good of America.

By accounts received from the different parts of the Continent as well as from Europe, where the tickets have been sent for sale, the public are assured that the drawing will speedily commence, and that the care and caution unavoidable necessary to insure a safe care of the tickets, has rendered the short suspension indispensable.

PROPOSALS,

FOR PRINTING BY SUBSCRIPTION,

A NEW EDITION OF

MILLAR'S ELEMENTS

OF THE

LAW OF INSURANCE.

THE present publication shall, by additions to the small Treatise published in Britain in 1787, be augmented to the size of two volumes royal octavo, containing of about 600 pages each, on a small pic type.

It had been suggested to the compiler, by many persons conversant in the law and practice of Insurance, that a complete compilation of the authorities on this particular subject would be of great utility; to which persons particularly interested in this one branch of law might have access, instead of being under the necessity of purchasing and turning over a variety of voluminous publications. For this end of convenience, it is proposed to devote the first volume of the present work to the reception of a very full collection of authorities; not in a state of abridgment, as was the case in the former edition; and which could never supersede recourse to the originals; but to be inserted verbatim from the most approved original compilations, and arranged in the mode which appears most convenient for consultation.

This First Volume, or Dictionary of Authorities, will comprehend,

i. The ancient Marine Ordinances of the foreign states of Europe; which form the common law of Insurance. At present it is unfortunate that a collection of these is scarcely to be found anywhere else than in that scarce and dear book, Magen's Essay, in two volumes, 4to.

ii. The State Law of Great-Britain in regard to Insurances. The American legislatures have hitherto done nothing upon this subject.

iii. A very full collection of the reports of adjudged cases in the courts of England and Scotland, and of those of the States of America so far as they can be obtained. This will form by far the greatest as well as the most important part of the first volume. By means of his friends at the English bar, the compiler hopes to bring forward a number of reports of adjudged cases never before published, so as to make the series on this subject more complete than any now extant.

The second volume will consist of an Institute, or Elementary Treatise, on a plan something similar to that of the former edition; but with a great addition of new matter; so as to extend this part of the work to about double the former size. A more practical arrangement will also be studied.

The whole will be attended with very full Indexes of the different parts.

Price to subscribers six dollars and one half for the two volumes in boards.

The work will be put to the press whenever a sufficient number of subscriptions have been obtained to indemnify the publisher for the actual expence of publication.

Subscriptions will be received by Thomas Dobson, and all the Booksellers in Philadelphia.
