From the South Carolina State Gazette. Meffis. Young & Fault, LET me publicly challenge the "Conffituent" to adduce even a folitary inftance of a tendency to "anarchy and diforganization" having occurred in the upper part of the flate. Has the doors of juffice been barred by lawlefs riot? Have the pub lic officers been prevented from difcharging their re-lative duties by licentious oppolition? Have the collection of taxes been wantouly checked? Did the reform affociation—that ellablifament fo much the reform affociation—that effablifhment fo much calumniated and hated—inculcate "diforganization" or recommend tumultuary violence, fhould its laud-able meafures be defeated? Come forward, thou confident afferter of "airy nothings," and fubflan tiate your charge. It is as black as Errbus—as gloomy as the grave. Vague affertions and intereff-ed calumny will not be admitted : adduce proofs : bring tellimony : reply, if thou can'fl, to the fub-fequent queflions : In what diffrict have fymptoms of "anarchy and difforganization" appeared? In what part of the flate has difforder "paralyfed" go-government, and confution rendered the "admini-firation of the lawsirregular"? Can you lay your what part of the flate has diforder "paralyfed" go-government, and confusion rendered the "admini-itration of the laws irregular"? Can you lay your hand on your heart, and, in the prefence of God, declare, that theie deplorable evils have occurred, or were even likely to occur? You cannot. You will not have the hardihood to attempt ii. Why then do you wastonly charge the upper country with fuch dreadful views? Why reprefent us to the feel-ings of our fellow citizens, and to our fifter flates, as odious and abhorrent, difported to tamult, and impatient to plunge into a fea of anarch? By mif-reprefenting the difposition of the upper country, you have tarnished the fair name of the flate. By flying your weftern fellow citizens "anarchifts and diforganizers, you have affixed a blight on republi-ean wirtue, and the freedom of political difection has received a deep wound through our fides. To whom eught the humiliating epithets of "anarchift and diforganizer" to be applied? To the man who, by his writings or actions, ipreads the feeds of dif-fention and excites the fpirit of domefite hoffility. Common decency prohibits are yerfest, from making the proper application. When will flander cafe to featter its poilonous datts? When will flander cafe to featter its poilonous datts? When will flander obliterated? When will citizen unting with esizi-en, co-operate in effecting the mott effential objects, mutual confidence, public happinefs, and the puiv-ate wirtues. The "Conflituent" conceives "Carolinienfis" to ate virtues.

ate virtues. The "Conflituent" conceives "Carolinienfis" to be the worfhipped "idol" of the upper country, pronounceshim to be the fole author of the Reform affociation, and declares, that he was influenced principally by motives of perfonal agrandizement. It will not be denied by his moft inveterate ene-mies, that "Carolinienfis" is a man of extensive tal ents, eminent in his profeffion, and qualified to be a valuable member of fociety. Inheriting from an-ture a fine genius, and enjoying all the advantages of a liberal education, his firth appearance at the har opened the fair profpect of rifing eminence. His active mind is eminently fuited to the moft en-larged views, as well as the moft minute details of his proteffion. Studious, perfevening and ambilarged views, as well as the moft minute details of his proteffion. Studious, perfeveting and ambi-tious, he is full adding to the vaft fund of know-ledge that he already poffeffes; and fhould no un-fortunate dereliction from prudence or confifteney of conduct occur, the will make, at fome future pe-tiod, a diffinguifhed figure on the political theatre of his country. With a faculey of thinking, un-commonly vigorous and lively, with a flow of elo-quence peculiarly elegant and fpinited, with a voice full of melody, and a delivery truly graceful, he has advanced with gigantic firides, to importance in the line of his profeffion, in defance to a combined influential oppolition, and has rendered himfelf, at prefent, the marked object of public attention. Is it then furprifing, that "Catolinientis," poffeffing fuch brilliant talents, fhould render himfelf popular in the upper country? His profeffional purfuits af-
