

BOSTON, June 20.

BATH.—The two famous Indian chiefs, who have amused us for some time with their extraordinary exercises, are just gone for London, heavier by 400 guineas than when they came here.

HAVING frequently seen in the public papers, accounts of American seamen having been impressed on board British men of war, notwithstanding their having protections from Notaries, I wish to inform all seamen, that should they, after having procured a protection from a Notary public, apply to the British consul, and have his seal or signature affixed thereto, they may rest assured that their protection will be respected.

HALLOWELL, June 10.

Last week the remains of Capt. Sohler, late of Bolton, were found in the woods near Starks. Capt. Sohler has been missing about two years, and it was conjectured at that time he was murdered; but by the examination of a number of persons it appears not to be the case.

From the Cambridge Intelligencer.

LOYALTY AND A CHRISTIAN SPIRIT; OR, BISHOP HORSLEY'S ADDRESS. With NOTES by another Hand.

WE your majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Dean and Chapter of your collegiate church of St. Peter, Westminster, crave permission to throw ourselves at your royal feet!

To express, what words can express, of the part we take in the general joy, on your majesty's late escape, from the designs, and the outrageous attempts of treason!

We reflect, with grief and horror, that there could exist in the country, hearts to contrive, and a single hand to execute, the atrocious design!

With your invaluable life, had the horrid attempt succeeded, the happiness of the country had been extinguished; your royal throne overturned; the Constitution subverted; and the National Church laid in ruins!

Our hearts overflow with gratitude to God, that the preservation of your majesty averted this dreadful mischief! and our prayers daily ascend to the almighty, that he would continue to watch over your majesty for good; and over your enemies—for evil!

And, that he will bring all plots and conspiracies to light; and all persons to the vengeance of their country's justice! and that your majesty may reign long, secure and happy; & the prosperity of your royal and illustrious house be perpetual!

Dated 25th November, in the year of our Lord, 1795.—Chapter-house Westminster.

This expression we think rather too assuming. Royal Toes would have been more expressive of the profound loyalty of the Dean and Chapter, especially if accompanied with an humble request that his majesty would graciously permit them to salute another ROYAL PART, altho, as some of our dignified clergy are in the habit of paying the same adulation to ministers, it may be thought superfluous.

With all due submission to our right reverend father in God, we think this expression conveys a very indecent reflection on our super excellent established Church. For if what his Lordship says is true, the "National Church" cannot be the church of Christ, because we are assured respecting the latter, that so far from depending on the existence of a single man, or that a few desperadoes should be able to lay it in "ruins"—the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

This truly Christian sentiment, and which we doubt not is enforced by the bishop's example, affords a most beautiful and striking illustration of a passage in the writings of one of his lordship's undoubted predecessors, the apostle Paul—Romans xii. 19—21. and of our favour's words, Matthew, v. 43—45.

Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath; for it is written, vengeance is mine; I will repay saith the Lord. Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink; for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

I lay unto you love your enemies, blest them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you; that ye may be the children of your father which is in heaven, for he maketh his sun to rise and his rain to descend on the just and the unjust.

While we thus do justice to his lordship's Christianity, we find, on consulting a brother Commentator, that the sentiment under consideration is not perfectly original, for it appears in the year 1629. JOHN BOYS, D. D. Dean of Canterbury, educated at Clare-hall, Cambridge, who was famous for his postills in defence of our Liturgy, gained great applause by turning the Lord's prayer into the following execration, when he preached at Paul's Cross.

"Our Pope which art in Rome, cursed be thy name; thy kingdom perish; hindered may thy will be, as it is in heaven so in earth. Give us this day our cup in the Lord's Supper; and remit our monies which we have given for thy indulgencies, as we fend them back unto thee, and lead us not into heresy, but free us from misery, for thine is the infernal pitch and sulphur forever and ever. Amen."

The sentiments of this concluding paragraph are not correct, and its language is feeble. The prosperity of his majesty's Royal house, if we may believe the Editor of the True Briton, is not an object so devoutly to be wished, as appears by the following paragraph from that paper of Monday last.

"We believe the Prayers of a Nation were never more devoutly offered up for the life of a Sovereign than those of the people of this country for that of his present majesty. We have every thing to look to in his preservation that affree, a loyal, and a happy people can wish.—if we look beyond it—but the scene is too painful to contemplate!"

What this paragraph alludes to we are not able to determine, but report whispers, that some of the royal house, have expressed their dislike of the two bills which have lately made such a noise. The very suspicion of such a circumstance ought to have made the Bishop more cautious. His congratulatory language should have been confined solely to his Majesty. He might with great propriety have adopted the style of Eastern eloquence so much in fashion in the reign of James I. "May your Majesty's reign continue as long as the Sun and Moon endure." But perhaps his Lordship was deterred therefrom, by calling to mind James's answer to a corporation address couched in the style recommended. His Majesty after acknowledging his obligations to his loyal subjects, shrewdly remarked—that he knew not what his son would say to them, for if their prayers were answered, if he reigned at all it must be by candle light!

VIVAT REPUBLICA.

For Sale,

A LARGE ELEGANT AND WELL FINISHED Three-story Brick House,

(The late residence of General Walter Stewart) WITH A LOT of GROUND thereunto belonging, on the west side of Third-street, near Union-street containing in front 32 feet, and in depth 100 feet, to an alley leading into Union-street. The house is 32 feet front and 50 feet deep; the several rooms contained in it are large, commodious, and completely finished; the two first stories are each 13 feet high; there are 20 mahogany doors in the house; a geometrical staircase, with mahogany rails and a good sky-light. The kitchen is in the cellar, which is spacious and convenient, and finished with an oven, stew-holes and pantries, a servants' hall and large wine-cellar adjoining the kitchen, in front of which is an area in which there is a pump. The yard is vaulted. Communicating with the said building is a neat three-story brick house, on the north side of Union-street, containing 30 feet front by 20 feet deep; the lower part of which is at present occupied as a counting-house, and the upper part divided into well-finished large chambers. This house may at a small expense be converted into a convenient dwelling. The front door is very handsome, and the front and back have Venetian window-shutters. Adjoining the last house, upon the lot belonging to the first, are erected bathing-rooms, &c. There are likewise very good coach-houses and stables finished equal (or nearly so) with any in the city, on a lot containing on Union street 30 feet, and in depth on the west side of said alley 52 feet. There are good cellars under the whole of the buildings, and a wine room over part of the stable, with a hay-loft over the remainder. For further particulars enquire of EDWARD BONSALL & Co. At their Office No. 64 Dock-street, between Walnut & Pear streets. 6th month 24th, 1796.

PROPOSALS

FOR PUBLISHING BY SUBSCRIPTION,

A Plan of the City of Washington,

By THOMAS FREEMAN,

Surveyor of the territory of Columbia and City of Washington.

CONDITIONS.

I. This Plan shall be an elegant and correct Copperplate impression, of about four feet square, whereon will be accurately delineated the natural state of the ground contained within the lines of the city—pains, valleys, rising grounds, springs, runs, creeks, &c. with the lines of the grand avenues, streets, squares, public appropriations for walks, gardens, as now correctly laid out and permanently established—the river Potomak, and Eastern Branch, opposite the city—the channels, coasts, harbours and foundations of the same, as taken by order of the Board of Commissioners.

II. On the sides of the Plan shall be represented a beautiful elevation of the President's House and the Capitol.

III. To render the drawing still more intelligible and useful, it shall be accompanied by a Pamphlet, containing all the laws of the general and particular governments, respecting the location and establishment of the city—the orders and regulations of the Board of Commissioners, approved by the President of the United States, respecting the purchase and improvement of lots therein—a particular description of the city and adjacent country—of the river Potomak, with the productions, state of cultivation, commerce, population, &c. of the country through which that vast river flows.

IV. This work will be published under the sanction of the Commissioners of the City, and shall meet with their full approbation before it appears in public; and Mr. FREEMAN pledges himself to make it as accurate useful and entertaining as possible.

V. The price to subscribers 5 Dollars, to be paid on reception of the Plan and Pamphlet.

Surveyor's Office, City of Washington, June 8, 1796.

Subscriptions will be taken at the Surveyor's office, in the city; Mr. Rice's Bookstore in Baltimore and Philadelphia; and at the principal Bookstores on the Continent. June 17 2aw3w

PROSPECTUS

Of a Cheap and Elegant Pocket Edition of

Select and Entertaining NOVELS;

Or, NOVELIST'S POCKET LIBRARY;

Printed in so convenient a size that a volume may be carried in each pocket without the least inconvenience;—being an agreeable travelling companion, affording amusement in the garden, the field, or the shady bower, and forming a valuable collection of Novels and Tales, written by the most approved authors, particularly

Fielding Sterne Marmontel Cervantes
Smollet Goldsmith Rattliffe Roussau
Richardson Brookes Hawkefworth Le Sage, &c.

To commence with the 1st volume of the celebrated novel intitled The Mysteries of Udolpho, by the author of The Romance of the Forest, &c. &c. embellished with a beautiful engraved Frontispiece representing an interesting scene in the above, elegantly gilt, at only 75 cents.

CONDITIONS.

These select Novels shall be printed in handsome octodecimo pocket volumes, on good type and paper, and with a delicate new Bourgeois type on purpose for the work, by which means the page will be uncommonly comprehensive; each volume containing in quantity a duodecimo, and sometimes an octavo volume, printed verbatim from the original copies, in addition to the elegance of the typography, each volume will be embellished with a beautiful engraved frontispiece, representing the most interesting scene that occurs in the respective volume.

A volume will be published regularly every three weeks and delivered to subscribers neatly and uniformly bound and gilt, at only three-fourths of a dollar each, to be paid upon delivery. If a sufficient number of subscribers are procured, the work will be put to press some time in August, and a volume published every three weeks in regular succession. The encouragers of this work may rely upon every possible attention being paid to ensure elegance in the engravings, neatness and correctness in the printing, and uniformity in the binding, the whole being done under the immediate tendency of the publishers.

Subscribers may withdraw and recommence their subscriptions at pleasure, so as to confine their choice to as few of the Novels as they think proper, or extend their collection to the whole that are printed, which will comprise only those highly approved novels which have been stamped with universal approbation.

The publisher has not yet determined upon the arrangement in which the above novels shall appear; being determined to add and intermix other novels of equal celebrity, altho' he is conscious, that by comparing the above list with all former collections of this nature, the superiority of the present collection will appear obvious. British editors must necessarily exclude from their plans, all the new and entertaining novels that have been written within these last fourteen years, most of them being literary property.

For further particulars see the PROPOSALS at large which are to be had gratis of Thomas Condie, Book-binder, No. 20, Carter's alley, fourth second, below Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, where orders and subscribers will be thankfully received.

A liberal allowance to Bookellers, and others taking quantities.

PROPOSALS,

By BIROEN & MADAN,

For publishing by Subscription, that celebrated Work,

Godwin's Political Justice.

From the last London Edition.

TERMS.

I. It will be published in two large volumes, duodecimo.

II. Price to Subscribers, two dollars, handsomely bound, to be paid on delivery of the work.

III. As soon as a number of Subscribers appear, sufficient to defray the expense, it shall be put to press.

IV. The names of the Subscribers shall be prefixed.

The following Character of this work is extracted from the Monthly Review, p. 311, 312, for March, 1793.

"We have no small degree of pleasure in announcing the present work to our readers; as one which from the freedom of its enquiry, the grandeur of its views, and the fortitude of its principles, is eminently deserving of attention. By this eulogium, we would by no means be understood to subscribe to all the principles which these volumes contain. Knowledge is not yet arrived at that degree of certainty which is requisite, for any two men to think alike on all subjects; neither has language attained that consistent accuracy, which can enable them to convey their thoughts, even when they do think alike, in a manner perfectly correct and intelligible to both. These difficulties are only to be overcome by a patient, incessant, and benevolent investigation.

"Many of the opinions which this work contains, are bold; some of them are novel; and some doubtless are erroneous;—but that which ought to endear it even to those whose principles it may offend, is the strength of argument adduced in it to prove, that peace and order most effectually promote the happiness after which political reformers are panting;—that as the progress of knowledge is gradual, political reform ought not to be precipitate;—and that convulsive violence is dangerous not only to individuals (for that result comparatively would be of small account) but to the general cause of truth. It is the opposite of this principle that inspires the enemies of political enquiry with so much terror; it is the supposition that change must inevitably be attended by the turbulence and injustice of commotion; and that innovation cannot be made without the intervention of evils more destructive than those which are intended to be reformed. Under the conviction of this philanthropic sentiment, of calm and gradual reform, (which in its proper place he has fully illustrated) Mr. Godwin proceeds without scruple first to enquire into present evil, through its essential branches, and next to demonstrate future good.

"Dividing his work into eight books, and making THE IMPORTANCE OF POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS the subject of the first, he begins by an attempt to prove the omnipotence of government over the moral habits of mankind; and that on these moral habits their wisdom, virtue and felicity depend."
