doings of Mr. John Treaster, of Armigh township, Mifflin county, Pa., who caught in a common wolf trap, six deers, two bears and a panther, in about A gold mine, which promises well, has recontly been discovered near New Kont, C. H., Va. It belongs to a Mr. Hilliard.

Description of an Uperarr.--I cannot tell where I have met with this portrait drawn to the life; but it is clearly the work of some one of those good, but plain-spoken Bishops, who flourished with Latimer:

"An upstart is an holyday clown, and dif-fers only in the stuffe of his clothes, not the stuff of himselfe. His Father was a man of good stocke, though a tanner. He purchased the land and his son the title. He has doffed off the name of a country fellow, but the look not so easy, and his face still bears a relish for churned milk. He is guarded with more gold lace than any gentleman of the country, yet his body makes his clothes still out of fashion. In sum he is but a clod of his own earth, or In sum he is but a clod of his own earth, or his land is the dunghill, and he is the cock that crows over it; and commonly his race is quickly run, and his children's children', though they scape hanging, finally return to the place whence their Father came."

above Market, yesterday, our attention was arrested by one, or rathor a group, of the most beautiful specimers of photograph portraits that it has a tany time been our pleasure to examine. Upon inquiry, we found that the group was by no means of a private character, and, therefore, foel at li-berty to call to it the astice of the public. The work consists of superby executed colored pho-tographs of all the officers of the frand Lodge of the A-Y. M. of Pennsylvanis. They are fourteen in number, each occupying a separate medallion, the whole being stin a highly ormamentad oval forme. They fourteen the form each occupying a separate modalinos, the whole being set in a highly ornemented oval frame, three fest aix inches, by five fest in size. The groundwork of the en-closure covering the intervening spaces between the medallions is sanded and gilt, giving it a very rich ap-pearance, and has the effect of showing off the pictures in beautiful relief.
