6 Edill it is of incalculable importance to every man in business to know the exact state of the pulse of his affairs. Indeed, this is as important to the business of mariner who would make a safe entrance into the port of furtune, as it is for the pilot to know his faitide and longitude upon a trackless sea. The present year, with many, is not likely to foot up very "fat," but in a season like the present, we opine, coming off with "whole brongs" will be considered a rather lucky year's work. Resolved, That a copy of these proceedings be sent to the Hon. Mr. Zollicoffer, and to the members of Congress for Pennsylvania; and that our State Legislature be respectfully requested to pass resolutions recommending the foregoing proceedings, and that our President be requested to send copies to the members.
Col. John B. Warner moved that the soldiers of the War of 1812 celebrate the 22d of February—Washington's birth day—by a dinner. The resolution was adopted, and the putting of it into execution was referred to the Executive Committee.
The President then addressed the meeting in an eloquent manner, detailing many interesting incidents which happened during the war. He concluded by calling on Mr. Thomas Mellon for a speech. Mr. M. begged to be excused, as he had nover spoken in public.

A number of addresses were made, after which the meeting adjourned.

A Good Boy with some Exceptions.—The character of Master Nathan Himboch, a lad of fourteen, seemed to be as a subject of dispute between his mother, who appeared as his coursel or advocate, and an old gentleman, named Joshus Rawdon, who came forward to accuse and denoused him. Rawdon had caused young Nathan to barresde for, yardous acts of, malicious mischief, such as breaking windows, killing favorite cats, chalking nanghty words and sentences on his front door, and other deceds of fearful note," by which the securing party and many of his neighbors had been used a nanowed and analyse for contact, and other deceds of fearful note," by which the securing party and many of his neighbors had been used annowed and and distressed. Nathan himself listened to those charges with a smile of undisguised contempt, but his mother ropelled them with a degree of anger, and declared that there was not a better boy in the whole neighborhood than her son "Natty."

Mr. Rawdon. Does he not curse and swear madam, like a privateersman?

Mrs. Himloch. Well, he does swear some, because all the other boys swear, and he doesn't wish to appear eccentric.

Mr. Rawdon. Does he not break windows for his amusement?

Mrs. Himloch. No, sir; he throws stones because it's good wholesome exercise, and lif any of them happen to hit the windows, that's societant, and can thelp it:

Mrs. Himloch. I want to know whether 'taint better for him to kill dogs and cats, and sich lise, than human cretivits? Nobody can say that Natty over killed apything that had a sonl, and so long as he don't do that, it's not worth while to hurther poor child's feelings by scolding him I the was to kill sny shady.
