Shocking Case of Homicide—Another Comminary mon the Abias of Ligitor—The First ward, yasterday, proved the theatre of a murder, perpetrated, upon an inebriated man by one in a similarly imbuted condition. The facts are, that a laboring many named William Innes, was found, about nine celock yesterday morning; lying upon a interable mattress, in a dwelling near Broad and Fitzwater streets, in an inessable condition, with a gapling wound upon his head, and his person and bedding sodden with blood.

The obvious, on proceeding to the spot, found an existed throng of people pressing about the house of James Patton, N. W. junction of Broad and Fitzwater street. In the second story front room of this house was found; the body of Innes. The antiprubate mass died very soon afterwards, without recovering sufficiently to disclose the perpetrator of the deed. The deceased was a native of Soctiand, and has resided in this country for a number of years. It appears that his bod had been shared on the night previous by a fellow workman named John Mason. The two had been upon a drunken frolic together, had been in fits during the night they were heard engaged in a quarrel, but did not make noise enough to cocasion any aisrm.
