On Tuesday Evening,
July 27th, at 8 o'clock, at the Philadelphia Exchange, will be sold, for account of whom it may con-Its members, Mr. Street said in opening, that a mind less clevated than that of Paul, or one less under the influence of the Holy Spirit, would be content with smote discummented work of grace than the conversion of the entire race from the mire of sin to the more sublime realities of a holy life.

It was, in fact, to the Church alone that we could reasonably look for that thoroughness of reformation required in the Gospel. Among the various reformatory schools of earth, we should find that their highest aim, and the most they ever expected to accomplish, was to effect a check upon the evils against which they were pattling. change, will be some, or account with the Tinkle capital stock of the Tinkle paugh Coal Company, the same to be sold for arrears of assessments, purroant to resolutions of said company.

REAL ESTATE SALE—JULY 20th. which they were battling.

But Saint Paul was more than a moralist of a reformer. In the text before us he had de-lineated with scrapulous exactness what must be the character of the Ohurch to make it fit be the character of the Ohurch to make it fit to be presented to its divine Redeemer. The Church, and consequently the sonls of those composing it, in order to satisfy the Gospel standard, must be "Holy," and without blemish." having neither spot, wrinkle, (which were shown to be fitting emblems of sin,) nor any such thing, and all this as the direct result of the redeeming blood of Christ.

This is order to effect this great purification of our sin sick souls that Christ, had made in a street on the control of tion of our aid-sick souls that. Christ had made so large an expenditure of sacrifice in our behalf, that thoreby the Church might be fitted to be "presented to himself." For this special object the Church on earth had been established, that Christ, operating through it might so cleanse and purify the souls of men sate at them to dwell with Him in heavy. it, might so cleanse and purify the souls of men as to fit them to dwell with Him in heaven for ever. But anything short of this divine requirement was not sufficient, and unless our whole aim and object was, through faith in the blood of the atonement to be pire, faultless, and unblemished, we could have no hope of at last standing justified before the glory of the most High. most High.

By the Church of God—through the medium or which this great work of the world's re-demption was to be accomplished—we were to understand all such as had rejected the rld and become believers in Christ. No mat world and become believers in Crisis. No mat-ter where they are born, or under what cir-cumstances they live—if they were scaled to Christ, through faith in his atonement, they were all one in Him; the acceptance of this sacrifice placed them at once in communion with God, and with each other here, and wenld it them to the closest embraces of their Saviour hereafter.

At this point of his discourse the speaker administered a bold and independent rebuke to the idea, still too prevalent, that there are different Christian churches. This, said be, was an 'absurdity and 'a delusion'; practically the church of Christ must be a unit; existing under and governed by one common head. It mattered not then in what quarter of the globe might be the dwelling place of professing Christians, their purposes were one, their pil grimage was in the same direction, and their grimage was in the same direction, and their home was the same heaven. There might in-deed be some necessity for denominational classification, yet, inasmuch as either of these classes were in Christ they were one, and it was no part of true Christianity to attempt by the introduction of division walls to destroy the introduction of division walls to destroy this unity. To his mind, one of the grandest effects of the present great religious movement was, the broad spirit of union which it was practically introducing. Denominational differences were giving way before the sway of a higher and a hobber principle; and it was time they should be, for while they remained they were only a hindrance in the way of men, and an about nation in the sight of God. and an abomination in the sight of God. ad an abomination in the signt of Gou.

And now, recurring mere immediately to the subject under consideration, he said that VALUABLE FARM AND COUNTRY the blood of his heart for its purification, that it might be presented unto himself without spot and without blombsh. The text was explicit upon this point; there could, in fact, from its language, but no true Obristian life without the practice of purity on the part of professors. Nothing that was sinful could be admitted into the Ohristian character; but, on the other head all the most the release of the country but, on the other hand, all slo must be rejected, even as the diamond rejects by its purity the com-mon metals. Paul had drawn a portrait of the true Christian; and among the features de-lineated in that picture, referred to by the speaker; were the virtues of love, joy, long-suffering, mildness, goodness, fidelity, sim-plicity; meekness; suffering all the weak-nesses of the children of God, and the wicked-ness of the world. Out environ or regulations nesses of the children of God, and the wickedness of the world; not envious or proud, thinking no evil; rejoicing not in iniquity—a quality which too many professors; could not glory in —speaking evil of no man; enduring all things; and to all of which he was prompted by one great vital principle, viz, the love of Obrists: Divine love was the secret of it all.
God 60 oved the world as to give his Son for it, and the Son, in his turn, so loved the world as to give himself for it. But for the Church to assume its true position its members must to assume its true position, its members must have all the essential characteristics. Nor was it unreasonable that the Church should was it dureasonable that the Church should claim this high degree of purity. Its work was the greatest conceivable, and of all the requisite elements to accomplish its mission none could take the place of purity. All worldly treasures and endowments were not to be compared with this. These things might indeed bestow a glittering exterior, dazzling as an ice-berg, yet, unless there was purity of heart within, it would be but a transitory and reflected glitter, its innate shining quality would be wanting. would be wanting.

In conclusion, the speaker said the Church, in its present state, was like a field in which there were wheat and tares; but the day was coming when there would be a separation coming when there would be a separation—when Christ would be all in all. Then, more than ever before, would the redeemed be able to realize the wonders of that blood in which they had been washed—when, amid that immense throng which shall be gathered around the Redeemer of the world, there shall not be found one unbely or impure—where envy, malice, backbitting, vanity, worldliness, nor any other evil passion can be admitted, but where all will be of one mind, they in Christ and Christ in them, in company with those who, before the flood, had walked with God, and with those who, ince the flood, had been called with those who, since the flood, had been called the friends of God; all in one group, knowing and known, holy, without, spot or wrinkle, or any such thing." And now, he would ask, was this not destrable? After impressing the import of this significant interrogatory upon the minds of the unconverted before him; in which he admonished them of the danger of delaying so important a decision, he closed with the parting position; that all who heard his voice might act wisely in this matter, and seek the Lord while He may be found. The sermon, of which the above is a meagre synopsis, having been prepared with more special reference to the periodic administration of a religious rite, admirable as it was, can hardly be regarded as a fair representative specimen of Mr. Streatz usual pulpit efforts. That his ministerial labors have been appreciated may be interred from the remarkable success with which they have been attended with those who, since the flood, had been called cated may be interest from the remarkable success with which they have been attended in building up a congregation; and it is but paying a just tribute to his merits as a minister for the Gospel to say filtat this success is measurably attributable to the fact that he has at all times evinced a greater real to reap the regard of his office in awakening the mention that it readings for himself

DERUVIAN SYRUP,

The proofs of its efficacy are so numerous, so well authenticated, and of such peculiar character, that sufferers cannot reasonably hesitate to receive the professed sid.

The Peruvian Syrup does not profess to be a cure-all, but its range is extensive, because many diseases, apparently unlike, are intimately related, and proceeding from one cause, may be cured by one remedy.

The class of diseases for which the Syrup provides a cure is precisely that which has so often baffled the highest order of medical skill. The facts are tangible, the witnesses accessible, and the safety and efficacy of the Syrup incontrovertible.

The undersigned having experienced the boneficial effects of the "Peruvian Syrup," do not hesitate to recommend it to the attention of the public.

From our own experience, as well as from the testimouy of others, whose intelligence and integrity are altogather unquestionable, we have no doubt of its efficacy in cases of Incipient Diseases of the Lungs and Brochial Passages, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Neuralgia, &c. Indued, its effects would be incredible, but from the high character of those who have witnessed them, and have volunteered their testimony, as we do ours, to its restorative power,

CERTIFICATE OF DR. HAYES.

It is well known that the medicinal effects of Protoxide of Iron is lost by even a very brief exposure to air, and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron, without further exidation, has been deemed impossible. In the Peruvian Syrup, this desirable point is attained by combination in a way before unknown, and this solution may replace all the prote carbonates, ci trates, and tartrates of the Materia Medica.
