The Undine of the same artist, executed some years ago, is repeated in this embodiment of the water spirit, but with large improvement. Hiswatha's Wooing is to be noticed for the artist's fine apprehension of the character This Indian Messiah is: not, a savage, but the divine man of the race. READ's presentment of him is a fine translation of the Apollo into Indian. A sort of local-item critic of art, who stood near mo, thought that the Hiawatha of this picture was not correct in costume or expression. He meant that he was not drunk, or made up of paint, feathers, and powter medals. He was right in his way. The Hiawatha of the fable is not a portrait of anything hat the poor man had ever seen, or could understand, if he had seen it,

The Oberon and Titania is so famillar as to feel commonplace in conception. SHARS-PEARE is too true to nature to be other than vulgar to the vulgar. The merit in this palating is in its execution. Seen by itself, and carefully studied, it would give great pleasure, for READ does not fail in his work any more than in his feeling; but it is hard to do it justice after looking at the Spirits of the Waterfall. Mr. Macgregor at Jayne's Hall. The announcement that John MacGregor, Eq., well known in this country and Ergiand as the horabity con-nected with many of the principal reformatory mova-ments in Great Britain, would deliver an address to the citizens of Philadelphis, of all denominations, at Jayne's Hall, yesterday, atternoon, striated a very large congregation at the appointed hour. As four o'clock, the hour of commanding, the Jower part of the hall was densely filed with about an equal humber of lades and goatlemen. He had not, while in New York, seen a single boy that could in any way be con-sidered a fair specimen of what the term ragged chil-dren signified in London. Growing out of this branch of their reformatory movements were other minor ameliorating enterprises which claimed the speaker's attention to the infinite amusement, and we doubt not profitable instruction, of his hearers. Profinient among these ambindividentities were the Shone. Machine that he is publicly exultant in the fact that he has defeated A. H. Coffroth and succeeded in presenting Judge Kimmell as the Administration candidate for Congress in the Somerset, Cambria, Blair and Huntingdon district. Judge Kimmell as you will recollect, started out violently anti-Lecompton, and took great credit to himself because he left the whig party and came over to Lecompton, and took great crodit to himself because he loft the while party and came over to the Demeioratio party, thereby showing that he was actuated by consolentious moives. Since Judge Black has visited Somerset and Judge Kin-mell has surrendored his anti-Lecomptonism and is now a sworn Administration man, even to the extent of swording Judge Douglas, you may judge how far he is or is not sincere. Mr. Pershing, of Cambria, has been sliente on this question, expecting Judge Black's support, and Mr. Banks, of Blair, has been a little more open, became he had not the azeurate of the Attorney Goneral's countenance. This is to state that I shall calmly await the accumulation of all the accussions of the Administration and its agents, when, in my own way, and in my own good time, I will prove all that I have written and spoken as to the gross betrayal or a great principle, and a solemn pledge, and still further, establish the justice and strength of the position of THE PERSS and of myself.

Abgianization Jr W. FORNEY. Lecompton ism. Conviting 'Americans,' If there is one well defined principle, of the temocratic party, it is that of, inexarable op-Democrate party, it is that of indecorating op-position to the doctrines of the organization which had its risk in 1864 opposition to se-cret political societies, to religious infolerance, and to all discrimination against citizens, not born upon our soil. The Oincinnati platform, as well, as the Democratic national platforms anterior to that, reasserted in gene ral terms the hostility of the Democratic party to this doctrine. But since the new light of of Lecomptonism has dawned upon us, this porlion of the creed of the National Democracy has been as studiously ignored as that other portion of the same creed which assorts the equality of the States, and the recognition of the will of the majority, for when the equality of the citizen is denied, the de-nial of the equality of the States unquestionably follows. It is a fact which recent and present abundantly prove, that while the Lecomptonites rely upon the adopted citizens to sustain them in their war upon the men who adhere to State rights and to the pledges of the campaign of 1866, at the same time these very Lecomptonites, backed by the Admi-nistration, appeal for support to those who are publicly and notorionsly committed against these very adopted citizens! It is no part of our policy or purpose to assail the " Ame ricans" as such, while repeating our own con scientious judgment that their doctrines, apart from their nationality, have become obsolete ; from their nationality, us to become outside but we think that the honest men of that organization will themselves, agree with us, that when so have a betrayal of a great truth as is that of opposition to Lecompton is sought to be consummated—first by offers of allegiance to them, and secondly by a betray. al of the adopted citizens - neither the party expected to be sediced hor the party, sought to be deserted can regard the profer with any other smotion than that of contempt. "That boy will be the death of us !". We neet John BROUGHAN every where, a shining light for every thing ; sometimes satirising "the warrior poet, Monars," in an Epigram, which its subject actually took or mistook for compliment, publishing it as such ; sometimes flourishing as author of a comedy of social line, sometimes perpetrating a farce; now making the world laugh over a burlesque, then giving them matter for thought in a poem; but always gifted, social; able, ready, and witty. We do not mind telling the public (in confidence, strictly,) that the impromptu which our New York Correspondent put into his letter, in yesterday's PRESS, was flung off in a minute, by Jonn BROUGHAM. It is called "The Shot in Davy Jones' Locker," but seems to want a little explanation. The circumstance which suggested the effusion was this: After the splice of the Cable had been main in Mid Ocean, it was discovered that the wlead? by which it was to be sunk was missing, and in that dilemma, they attached a cannon ball to the cosjoined parts and submerged the Oable. This is withe toy of despots, type of slaughter's referred to in he verses. With this necessary preface, we epublish the lines : THE SHOT IN DAVY JONES' LOOKER.

[From tho New York Post of last evening.] A gentleman from Newburgh informs us that a cattle train from Albany was overtaken by a second train at Fishtlil, near the curve of the road, at about midnight og the ölb. The engineer, Mr. George Hayward, ibo engineer of the rear train, a brakeman, and a drover, one of the propristors of the cattle, ware instantly kill-ed. Their names were not ascertaized. Obarles Pobla-ron, engineer of the ther train, was severely injured. The first train had stopped from some causa, and gave signals, which do not seem to have been observed. Tho second train, drawn by two locomotives, cause down at full speed, running into it, demolikhing several of the cars, and producing general destruction. A large formace standing at the curve was converted into a mass of ruin. Signals had been given, but it is probable that the engineer and conductor of the rear train failed to res them, owing to the peculiar form of the read at that point.
