THOMAS W. EVANS & Co.'s NEW STORE -- We are already noticed this splendld addition to the busi-ess places that flank Obestinut street in such magnit-ess, profusion, and especially in the vicinity in which lesses. T. W. Brans & Co.'s new store is located. be recognised as chaste and elegant in its arrangements be recognised as chaste and elegant in its arrangement, without the slightest attempt at the gaidy display, and family "glogerhread work" which are in too many instances allowed to mar the aubstantial beauties of similar, disticlass establishments. The fine, unbroken width of the main floor of this house—being forty-one width of the main noor of the nonze-being its of the feet in the clear—extending from street to street, and finked on either side with rows of the most inviting stationary stools, alongside of neat but substantial counters, attended by points, well-akilled, and intelligent clerks, behind which are reared up in magnificent profusion, all the seasonable fabrics for ladies' wear from the fluest gossamer tissues to the heaviest and ost costly woollen materials which the winds of Zen bla cannot penotrate; may be presumed, upon the whole, to present a rather interesting epectacle. To an observing mind, it is no inconsiderable treat to pass through a well-stocked establishment of this kind, and through a well-stocked establishment of this kind; and take in at a glance the artistic products of a thousand different tastes. The view from the balcony surrounding the great central dome of this store, when the lower room is through with several hundred customers, (which can easily be entertained without causing any uncounfortable crowd,) affords as lively and pleasing a picture, to contemplate as the eyes of the most factificous business man could wish to look upon. Such a scene; we are glad to say, from observation, has already been afforded in the new store of Mesars. T. W. PARORAMA OF THE BIBLE .- This mammoth painting, representing the leading incidents in the Oid Testament history, from the Creation to the Babylonian esptivity, was opened at National Hall, in this city, for the first time, on last Friday evening. Until last even-ing it was not in our power to witness its exhibition, and even then we but reached National Hall in time to nee a few of its closing features Jerusalem in the distance; the visit of the Queen of Bueba with her train with King Solomon in his magnificent palace; the con-quest of Jerusalem by Nebuobadnessar, and the carry-ing away of the children of Israel; the city of Babylon in her ancient spleydor, within her sixty miles enco-sure, and her one hundred gates, and the weeping of the daughters of Jerusalem by the waters of the Eu-
