The Expedition to Paraguay. The causes which have led to the organiza tion of the present naval expedition of our Government against the South American Republic of Paraguay, are the refusal of its President, Lorez, to finally ratify a treaty of commerce made in 1853, and alleged outrages upon the United States steamer Water Witch, and upon an American trauing company.

Great Gathering of the People.

respondence of The Press.] .: "
("M. office of The Chester, Oct. 4, 1858." The mass meeting of the people, held at Media, n Saturday last, favorable to the election of Hon. ohn Hickman, was a demonstration of which his numerous friends in the Sixth district have just cause to feel proud. At one o'clock, delegation after delegation, from most of the townships in the county, began to pour in. The Old Guard, from Upper and Lower Chichester, brought with them a full-rigged ship, manned with sailors in blue inchets, from stem to stern, followed by wagons filled with the hardy yeomanry from those townships. The vehicles were covered with qualit mottoes, which told that their owners were in arnest, and that they were determined to do justice to an honest man and an incorruptible pa-After the different delegations had arrived upon the ground, and the "cattle" which had drawn them there had been properly cared for, the meeting was organized by the appointment of the folre active to $16 John Control of the following officers:

Baker; Chester; Abraham Sharpless, Oonoord; James Lewis, Marple; John R. Catey, Marous Hook; Thomas Webster, Lower Chichester; William O. Boker, Lower Chichester; Teld, Chester; Charles R. Williamson, Miedla.

The president opened the meeting in a reat and lowing officers:

Frank Field, Ohester; Charles R. Williamson, Midla.

The president opened the meeting in a neat and elequent speech: 'He alluded to the acts and votes of them.' John Hickman, and said they had won for him the heartfall gratitude; not only of every reflecting man in the district, but of every honest man in the North. He had stood by his constitution in the North. He had stood by his constitution in the heartfall grating which the country had known for money years, and they would stand by him, despite the maneaving of interested politicals who seek to rob him of the honor te which he is justly entitled. There are hundreds in the district whose hearts are in the right place on the great issue now before the people, who need only to perceive the truth to insure their embracing it. After, referring, to the fact that there were present at the meeting large numbers of life long. Democrats and old-line 'Whigs, lacting in concert in this great movement, he introduced Dr. William Elder, of Philadelphia; who addressed the audience in a telling speech of more than an hour and a half. He was followed by David Webster was followed by Fraser Smith, Esq., and Joseph Wilson, Erq., of Ohester county, both of whom delivered effective addresses.

If this 'demonstration' is any evidence of the state of feeling in this county, the vote of Mr. Hickman must far exceed the calculations of his most sanguine friends. Very truly yours,
