Differences. BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL. There are all-important topics
That engross the public mind,
And antagonistic parties
We at evry corner find,
Who are mystifled by shadows,
And are to the substance blind. First of all we have the deergy,
Who their doctrines ably teach;
Sectarian guide-boards rearing
In the sermons that they preach;
Pointing out the mindly pathways
To one heaven all would reach.

Then we have the politicians,
Those so often crossed in breed,
That each party has an antiTo each other party's cred—
With one on y alm in common—
At the public or bas to feed. Then, again, we have the lawyers—
Men to give us legal light;
What is black to one attorney,
To another must be white;
For the fee-bestowing client
Will be ever in the right. Will be even in the right.
Then we have the skilled physicians.
And the sick ones to them go;
Some say this and that their allment,
But as many say, 'not so;'
And while doctors are disputing,
Death will lay the patients low.
Then we have the attrudy farmers,
The producing sons of toil;'
Some will say a fertilizer
Has enriched their barron s'il,
While their neighbors who have tried it,
Say, 't' the land 'twill surely spoil.
We have authors and have artists',

While their neighbork who have tred to, Say, "i the land 'twill surely spoil. We have authors and have artists, Those without the "gift divine,"). And a fate whose drafts are honor'd At Parnassus, by the Nine; These will beam as clars in heaven, Those, as glow-worms, faintly shine. Best of all, we have the mechanics, And they differ, but agree. That the men shull de encouraged. And should well rewarded be, Who construct the marks of commercs, And the ships upon the sea Who build the stores for traffic, where the merchants count their gain, And erect in towns and cities. Homes where love and peace may reign, Where we taste the choicest blessings Man can here, on earth, attain.

Then we should the sons of labor. Man can here, on earth, attain.
Then we should the sons of labor
Ever hold in high regard,
For their hearts are warm and tender,
Though their busy hands are hard,
And their noble deeds are subjects
Worthy of a better bard.
Men will differ in opinions
Upon some things—not in all;
For in buying clothing, needed
On scoont of Adam's fall,
Lo: the millions are united Upon Bennett's Tower Hall.

SATURDAY, OUTOBER 16, 1858. RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE. Present Aspect of the Revival in this We have for some weeks past said little about the Revival, for this reason. Notwithstanding the inusnal religious, fervor kept up during sum there was, nevertheless, during that interval, a manifest falling off of human effort in the good cause, and the copieguence has been a corresponding falling off in the quarterly accessions to the churches, as compared with the spring communion. hat one of the conditions upon which this mercy. rolessed servents We have preferred, therefore, t the zeturn of cool weather. In looking around n a word, that which one vear ago was seen feebly octing from a thousand crevices in the rook which had been smitten by the thunderboit of a monetary panie, is to day flowing quietly through our midst a widening stream. The dews of Divine favor have desended upon the hill tops of Zion, making glad in their descent, and opening new tripagates to this stream in the hearts and homes of thousands here, and all over the land.

If it be true, which it confessedly is, that the early stages of the Revival movement were pecu-liarly characterized with an absence of excitement, it applies with even greater force to its progress note Divested entirely from the popular curiosity, which six months ago attracted numbers to the union prayer meetings in our public halls, it may be said to day to stand unsustained by anything savo a senso of religious duty on the part of those who attend them. We do not mean by this that none but professors of religion attend these meet ings the daily record of these gatherings is full of proof to the contrary. The fact that many, who have feretofore been unconcerned upon the sub-lect, are being brought to a knowledge of their condition, through the agency thus employed, is daily attested. The great central meeting for business mon, which now daily, at the noon-tide hour, fills the old Sansom street Church, furnishes abundant, illustration that the deep workings of the Spirit are as powerful to day as during the most welting seasons at Jayne's Hall last spring.

All the other dally union meetings that have been resumed within the last few weeks are giving like ions of real life.

This is especially a marked feature of the pre-sent movement, and commends itself even to peaceloving humanitarians who profess little regard for religion itself, viz.: that it furnishes a practical solution of the problem of universal brotherhood. Not that the human part of this work is perfect, or even what it should be with all the light we pos sess at this age; but we hazard nothing in saying that it is hopofully in advance of anything we have seen in the past. Is it not a matter of rejoicing that even the ministry, (who, if they did not lead, onorably followed, nevertheless, in the wake of this movement,) who erewhile were accustomed, in two many instances, to make the sacred desk a

Without wishing to be didactic, we may here be allowed to say, in view of the whitened harvest in nanded to labor, that it is infinitely wiser to purue a compiliatory course toward all classes of becoers, than to "cause weak brethren to offend' Persons who attend the union meetings may be sincere in requesting prayers for the conversion of their friends from one "form of faith" to another: widen the dimensions which the word widen the dimensions which the word with the word with the same effectually hours

We are not of those who believe that Christiani we are not or those who believe that Orristiant, ty should not be aggressive; but that aggression should be of truth against error, of light against darkness, and especially of belief against unbe-lief; and if all, of whatever name, whose faith is practically Christian, would lay aside the weapons of civil warfare, and unitedly direct their efforts, ot against scots, creed, or individuals, but in favor of the plain Gospol truth, that without "re-pentance toward God, and faith in the Lord Jesus hrist," no man can be saved, the great victory over blind Infidelity would soon be achieved. To this end we believe the present movement is tending. Upon every hand we are seeing a greater seal to instil truth than to fight the ignorant The merited contempt which a once defeated infi l mountebank has recently received at the hands of our Christian community, is a proof of what we have said, and is, in itself, an encouraging sign. There are certain vile things which can only live by new and again emitting their venom in a fight, designed to make this the basis for the "MetrolitanChurch," which is to be erected under the correspondent in Stirling writes that a meeting for

The big lump of gold found in Columbia, recontly, by Mr. Strain, has been molted and run into a bar, which weighs 101 cences, or 333 pounds, and sold for $7,433 50. Besides this, Mr. Strain has reserved some four or five hundred dollare' worth of specimens, belonging to the same boulder, making the total value of the piece found about $8,000. This is the largest lump of gold ever found in California of which we have any authentic record. THE ALLIANGE.—The Danites and Republicans are openly in concert of action. At Charleston, on Saturday last, Dr. Chambers, the Republican marshal of the day, stated to Judge Douglas that he had received a letter from R. B. Carpenter, of Chicago, requesting him, Chambers, to announce that Carpenter would hold a meeting at Charleston on Wednesday next. Chambers asked Douglas if he might make the announcement at the meeting, Saturday, and Douglas replied that he wished he would do so, as it would be another link in the proof that the Danites and Republicans are acting in concert—the Republican and Danite loaders being in correspondence with respect to the meeting and toket. Chambers made the announcement in behalf of his allies.—Kankakes (Ill.) Democrat.
