

principles, which, once applied, require and admit of no amendment or disturbance. The habit of wrangling remains, but the ground of dispute is taken away, and the sooner the accommodation is effected, the more order of things will be restored to the world for the better.

Unreliable Intelligence. The summary of foreign news, by the steamer from Liverpool and Southampton, supplied to the press, is full of contradictions. The order of things in the Associated Press is compiled by painstaking employees of excellent ability. In general, it is fairly as well as fully executed, and its errors—how few and far between—are faults of omission rather than of commission. One error, however, the news-condensers have a knack of falling into. We have repeatedly alluded to it, and now do so again, not as a mere allusion, but as a positive complaint.

BY MIDNIGHT MAIL. Letter from "Occasional." Correspondence of the Press. No. 10, 1869. (Continued from No. 9, 1869.) The field for Mexico is a place to hang for. Mexico is a very goodly and fertile country. It is a place to hang for. Mexico is a very goodly and fertile country. It is a place to hang for. Mexico is a very goodly and fertile country. It is a place to hang for.

Lecture of Hon. John P. Hale on Nationality. A large and intelligent audience assembled at Music Hall last evening to hear the second lecture before the Literary Congress of this city, which was delivered by Hon. John P. Hale, on "Nationality." The hall was filled to its capacity. After being introduced, Mr. Hale said that, before commencing, he would say a few words on the subject which he had to treat. He delivered his lecture in a clear, logical, and powerful manner, and his words were received with great interest and attention.

THE LATEST NEWS. BY TELEGRAPH. Letter from Utah. St. Louis, Nov. 18.—The Utah correspondence of the press, which has been so long and so full, is now being received here by telegraph. It contains many interesting particulars regarding the progress of the settlement in that Territory, and the various measures being taken by the Federal Government to improve its condition.

THE CITY. AMUSEMENTS THIS EVENING. THE MONEY MARKET. The Money Market. Philadelphia, Nov. 19, 1869. The market for money is very quiet, and the rate of interest is low. There is a general feeling of confidence, and the public debt is being sold at a premium. The gold market is also very active, and the price of gold is high.

FORNEY'S CALIFORNIA PRESS. The California Press, published by Forney & Co., is a valuable source of information regarding the state of California. It contains many interesting articles and news items from that State.

FORNEY'S CALIFORNIA PRESS. The California Press, published by Forney & Co., is a valuable source of information regarding the state of California. It contains many interesting articles and news items from that State.

FORNEY'S CALIFORNIA PRESS. The California Press, published by Forney & Co., is a valuable source of information regarding the state of California. It contains many interesting articles and news items from that State.

FORNEY'S CALIFORNIA PRESS. The California Press, published by Forney & Co., is a valuable source of information regarding the state of California. It contains many interesting articles and news items from that State.

FORNEY'S CALIFORNIA PRESS. The California Press, published by Forney & Co., is a valuable source of information regarding the state of California. It contains many interesting articles and news items from that State.

FORNEY'S CALIFORNIA PRESS. The California Press, published by Forney & Co., is a valuable source of information regarding the state of California. It contains many interesting articles and news items from that State.