and avything courring there possesses unusual ta-portance to many of our citizens. The "manifest destiny": theory will, in all probability, find this the next field for its operations. It would certain-ly be a very valuable addition to our possessions npon the Westorn portion of this continent, and while almost entrely useless to Mexico, would be of immense advantage to ns. The Constitution of Mexico forbids, the sale of this or any other territory, or else there would probably be no great dif-foulty in our purchase of it. As it is, we cannot, at present at least, sequire it in that way , but it is said that a company has been formed of Ameri-can capitalists to purchase large landed interests, mines, and a railway route through the country, and if by proper settlements, commenced under these suspices the country, becomes Americanized, its future history may present something of a parallel to that of Texas.

A serious accident occurred at the new hotel, in Chestnut street, yesterday morning, by the giving way of a derrick. While a party of workness were engaged in raising a heavy stone, the dertiok and stone came to the ground, striking two men in the fall, one of whom was instantly killed, and the other survived but a few hours. An omhibus, which was passing at the time of the acci dent, was also struck by the falling derrick, but think that, by any neglect or mischauce, a crowd-ed thoroughfare like Chestnut street should be ubiest to such a terrible accident, and a warning uld never be forgetten by the super andents of building operations.

New York Justice! Some months ago we had occasion to con ment, in as strong terms as the occasion war ranted, upon what appeared to be a dreadfully severe sentence, passed by a New York judge, upon a culprit who had stolen a few dollars-not more than five, if our memory he correct. The modern Rhadamanthus, then new in office, actually sentenced the convict to Forty Years' imprisonment. Since then, he has passed many sentences-he was a new broom, at first, determined to sweep very clean. Since then, he was within a hairsbreadth of having sentence passed upon himself, for the Grand Jury of New York actually found "a others for being hand, act, and part in a row (assault and conspiracy was the charge, we believe)) at the Academy of Music. The proeentor declined to push the case to trial, and so the learned judge escaped by a nolle prose-

It is dreadful to ball in the sum of $5,000,) Judge BUSSELL simply suspends judgment, to allow her being taken out of the State by her family and friends, threatening to have her committed to came here without a single graduated lawyer among them ; and, although acquainted with the odifigations of England, which had to some extent supercoded the common law, all those fictions fell off, in the practices of the people when they came to these shores, just as naturally as leaves fall from a tree. They established their local jurisdiction, which had descended to our own time, and which had in fact been in operation in England for the last one hundred and fifty years. Numerous instances were here cited to prove that in all cases the customs of a people preceded and formed the basis of their laws, and so it happened that, in fact, the courts of a country were the more exponents of its usages. In view of this, the outcry against common law, and the futile efforts which had been made to avoid its uncertainty, by codification, were without a foundation sither in reason or common sense. This position, was assumed first, because the usages of a people were easily understood by the masses; but no such simplicity had ever yet ob-tained where a system of code had been attempted, and the truth was, all such attempts tended but to throw a veil of obsourity over what it should be the object of Government to bring within the understanding and comprehension of all. If, said the speaker, in ancient times there had ever been any advantages derived from a code at all, it was only because it had been a faithful summary of the known usages of the people for whom it was formed. It was these atempts to obsoure law by investing it with what it should ever be kept free from, that threw around the profession to many mistaken notions respecting it. DREADFUL ACCIDENT AT THE NEW HOTEL .----FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

The Money Market.

DREADFUL ACCIDENT AT THE New HOTEL.---Yesterday morning, about half-past ton o'clock, the new hotel, at the southesst corner of Ninth and Chestnut streats, was the scene of a most painful acci-dant to two of the workmen. Is appears that a nur-ber of workmen were engraged in laying the atone work in the front part of the building, a fow feet above one of the iron cornices fronting on Ohestnut street, and very near to Ninth street. A pair of light wooden shears had been reacted for the purpose of taising the blocks to their, proper elevation. The shears had uo independent f undation, but rested on the joint of the second story. At their apex some tackling was sus-pended for the purpose of massing each store. This apparatus was held firm by what is known among the workmen as a back gay. A CHIOKEN COOPED.—One James Baker took up his quarters for the remainder of the evening in a domicile at Filth and Osk streats, an univited guest. The cellar in which James had stowed himself was used as a receptche for poultry, and the assump-tion in the mind of the owner, on discovering hun in his premises, was that be had we'll designs on the roosters. When James discovered, howaver, that he had been detected, he got his fosthers up, and, showing his source through the door, threatened rengesner of the direst import on any who might disturb his media-tions. The owner, however, turce the key on James, and sent for an officer to show him the easiest manner of exit. In the meanline James brake open James, but the officer arrived in time to procure a creasion of hostilities, and carried the chickenless James to one of our magistrates, who scoordingly cooped him up in Moyameneing to await the pleasure of the Court of Quarter Bessions.
