The Volcano of the White Tower. In the course of Thomas. Francis Meagher's second illustrated lecture on Central America, lately delivered in New York, copure the following thrillingly grand description of Thurstaba, or the White Tower. ing thrillinely grand description of Iherialba, or the White Tower.

"That volcand is a terror to the people; the birning agony is incessant; no human foot has staled the none has dered, the exploit and the poor Indian, with his clouded hearn growing darker, and atomicer with the belief that the Great Riend dyells there, and the energy of the control of the control of the control of the surging craier, all which are clearly visible below—these are what to this day have rendered it fearful and inscrintable.—But a day will come when thirrialbe shall, be scaled, and its lightnings and thunder peals shall be the promulgation of a new law and bovenant, and the brill of a new nation, what those of Sinui were to the revelation of the illumination of his people.

"Yes! in that pillar of smoke by day, in that pillar of flame by night, I read the sublime promise of confirmed liberty to the land; weath and power, instead of comparative insignificance and humble fortunes, the wilderness a garden; and for mankind, soing up from the ends of the earth to the high places thereof, a purer happiness, a statelier stitude and a brighter aspect. Yes, even when the wastes between the Mississippi and the norther andre, and beyond them again to the blue frontier, of the Pacific, shall have been peopled, and the cities multiplying at this hour between the Atlantic and the Mississippi shall have become to the cities of the prairie what Antworp and Genoa and London, with their view dwalls and conturies of renown, are to your city, in this the day of its fresh and sumptrous yout; and the whitest palace, the foundations of which were laid but yesterday, where merchants basier and weathers, have grown defaced and dark with age; even then, and over so, there shall be another empire of democracy, free as this of which the soaring eagle is the symbol, copulent, and invincible, planted with its fasces and its ensigns upon that stupendous rampart which interopt and from which the humblest mind saldom fails to derive lossons of high usefulness an f mountains, crowned with fertresses, like that o or mountains, crowned with tertrosses, like that of Thurislbs, and pouring down upon their errands of health and fruitfulness waters that never fail—Central America presents, in the language of Senator Astaburiaga, to the lover of Nature. to the man of silence, to the agriculturist, to those who prefer pastoral cares, to those who ceves the precious metals, to the merchant, to the most ambitions and inestiable—as, indeed, to the most industrious and adventurous of every denomination—a tions and insatable—as indeed; to the most indus-trions and adventurous of every denomination—a field of incomparable novelty and exhaustless wealth. In a word, the forests, the inines, and the walleys with which it abounds, all teeming and over-flowing with the treasures of Nature, constitute in itself a new world, which, in the partial obscurity that encompasses it, seems to have been reserved by the Providence of infinite views for future generations, and for an exhibition of happiness and glory which shall transcend the fortunes and achievements of this day, justly prized and ap-plauded as they are." FAT AND LEAN PEOPLE. We have our own theory on this subject, and our readers may, if they choose, have the benefit of it. The full, round, fat man is greatly to be nvied, for he appears so hearty, so contented, and so happy; his countenance so full of picasure, so free from care, so formed for mirth. Nothing can disturb him. His mind is buried too deeply in ease and fruition, to be is dosires. In society, as he is always wil-annoyed by trifling subjects. He will exert himself to obtain emolument or a desired end, it there be a fair prospect of full repayment for all his trouble; but otherwise, he will rarely abandon his present happiness and quiet; for a remote and doubtful addition to his dosires. In society as he is always will. ing to please, and always willing to be pleased, he is always pleasing. His company is ever agreeable, unless, from excess of gratification, it be too dull; and his path is easy—or is not pursued. In the Senate, when he speaks, which is but seldom, he receives the greatest attention. All acknowledge that he could not attention. All acknowledge that he could not be called to the floor but by something of the first importance. As intrigue would be too laborious for him, he has the credit of being honest. He can have no enemies. He may meet with opposition; but he will either conclinate and disarm it altogether, or deaden its offects by his pleasantry and good humor. In the pulpit; he labors not to deliver learned discourses but he pleases the exactivers. discourses; but he pleases the eye, diverts the imagination, wins the heart, and thus mere frequently attains his object. He becomes a popular preacher, procures a liberal and social congregation, and receives, of course, a full remuncration for his efforts. At the bar, he remuneration for his efforts. At the bar, he gains the good will of the witnesses, the court, and the jury; and, not least, of his clients. He succeeds, where his cause will warfant it, without extraordinary exertion; and when he less, bears his defeat with the greatest composure. He makes the best of doctors in cases that one not so urgent as to demand an instant attendance. He takes time to doliberate, and acts advisedly. He is never flurried by excitement. His opinions are delivered with the utmost caution and gravity. Their weight is sudged from his apgravity. Their weight is judged from his appearance. In short, wherever you place him, the happy and contented man is calculated to of service to his fellow beings, and resolves to enjoy his station.

But the lean and Cassius-looking individual,

But the lean and Cassius-looking individual, what can he do? He is never at his ease, never contented, never happy. Look at him! Can he he happy? He may be courageous, but he looks as though he might be rightened at his shadow, if he could discover it. He may be sociable and good natured, but his very countenance denies it, and makes him ill-humored, selfish, and testy. Every action is tremulous with impationce; every movement of a muscle appears fretful. He may possess talents, but what do they avail him? They take him no easier through life, and they take him no easier through life, and they make him no happier. He is first discontented, and then ambitious. He will stop at no obstacle to accomplish his purpose, but seldom attains it. As a legislator, a divine, a jurist, or a physician, he may be more learned, more blous, more degenerate, or more learned, more plous, more ingenious, or more active than the other; but it is not often that ness makes him lean, or his leanness makes him uneasy, is a question. One word to all. Take the Passs and read it-keep a good conscience-live well-sleep well—and, preserving a cheerful heart, " laugh and grow fat."

Anothen destructive fire occurred at Camden, Arkansas, on Christmas night. One thou-sand bales of cotton and other merchandise were destroyed, involving a loss of about $100,000, on which there was no insurance.

CITY ITEMS.

DESIRABLE BUSINESS STAND .- We invite the DESIRABLE HOSSESS STAND.—We invite the special stantion of our buiness readers to the advertisement, in another column, of the Store to Let, No. 522 Arch street. In addition to the advantages which this well-established business stand possesses in point of location (which we really consider an ascond to but few in this city), its admirable interior arrangements for a first-class fancy goods establishment of any kind are worthy of notice. The entire room is supplied on attack side with algorith of the second of the column of the standard way were advertished to the second of the secon sither side with elegant glass cases, and two rows of marble counters extending the entire length. The floor is also marble: The rear end of the room is an oval, which, being supplied with lofty mirrors, renders the fact titles for attractive display most complete. As all these elaborats fixtures are included with the store, without any extra charge to the tenant; the rest at which it is offered ($900) is, we should think, sufficiently low to commend it to the prompt action of business

MORNING PRAYER MERYING.—The morning Union prayer meetings, which have been held in the Buttonwood sireet presbyterian church, between Bifth and Bixth streets; for hearly a year past, are still continued with unabated interests. In fact, judging from the spirit and numerous attendance which characterized the meeting there yesterday morning, they have all the pristine vigor, which marked their incoption when the revival was at 16s height in most of our city churches. They are open for the participation of all Christians, irrespective of names or creed

Even inventors are sometimes slow in producing their evidence; in the meantime, therefore, we appeal to your sense of justice for the practical knowledge and account of the firm in question had an existence. It therefore remains for these slanderous pretenders to prove their for these slanderous pretenders are sometimes slow in producing their evidence in formation; whereas Coconie is not or the pretenders are sometimes and the provention of the pretender of the provention f Cocoine by their own limited and recently acquired therefore, we appeal to your sense of justice for the purpose of testing their unfounded assertions. The practical knowledge and experience obtained during the twenty years since our first preparation was mado, results in our now producing the most perfect Occoine that ever received public approbation. Satisfied that we could safely rely upon the superior and intrinsic qualities of our Occoine sustaining its popular reputation, we placed it before the public in a shape, style, and appearance that it could not possibly be mistaken for any other preparation. The word Cocoine (ke ke een) which we selected and copy-righted as the name for our popular preparation for the hair, may be found in Bechaell's National Dictionary, and that work may be consulted at the Astr Library. Where the word "Geocaine" is to be found, except in the advertisement of the concern aforesaid, I am unable to state. I believe Their piracy insiduation, therefore, only serves t display their ignorance slike of Cocolne and its name. Doubtless, therefore, they will have the entire monopoly of their own meaningless compound. Our labels afford namistakable evidence that no imitation was ever concemplated. They are finished in the first style of art. and entirely different in shape, color, and designs, and distinctly declare the contents of every bottlo to be "Phalon & Son's Goocine for the Hair." We, how, ever, afford the public a still further guarantee that they receive nothing but cur genuine Cocrine, by have incorrection nothing out the genetic Occine, y hav-ing our name and address stamped in the glass of every bottle issued from our establishment.

These external distinctions, we apprehend, sufficiently prove that no imitation was intended. Beyond all these, however, we confidently rely upon the unapproachable and intrinsic qualities of our Occoine, which effectually revents the possibility of its being mistaken for an other compound. We take this opportunity of remind other compound. We take this opportunity or reminu-ing you that, unlike Occoaine or other compounds, our Cocoine is perfectly free from the strong and offensive odor of imperfectly purified cocoanut oil, and is also readily distinguished by its fragrant and popular perfume. Nor can we conclude this communication with out soliciting assistance in defending our thirty years spotiess reputation from the unscrupulous calumnies and aspersions of jealous and disappointed competitors

Jonns Whitcomb's Remedy for Asthma. [Letter from a Lawjer in Newburyport, Mass.]
NEWBURIFORT, February 25, 1856. Newdowrrow, February 25, 1856, Joseph Bunnert, Esq.—Dear Sir: It is now nearly twelve months since I received the first bottle of your valuable medicine for the cure of the Asthma.
For thirteen years I suffered with the Asthma, and during that time there were but few months in which I did not suffer with a paroxysm that entirely prostrated me for two or three days, and sometimes longer. I will say, that from the time I took the first dose of your "Remedy" to the present hour, I have not had a bad attack, and now my system is so free from it, that the most aquive exercise and exposure seldom has any other effect than to alightly restrict the lungs Your medicine soon dispels that sensation, and I can easely claim a general release from the tormentor. Please accept my gratitude for the great blessing, and believe ne that I shall endeavor to introduce the Remedy whenever opportunity occurs. With great respect, you obedient servant, J. H. BRAGDON.

AND COLLECTING OFFICE, No. 608 CHESTNUT STREET,

The undersigned having been practically engaged for a number of years in different capacities of the Insurance Didiness—for several years in adjusting losses exclusively for the Insurance Companies—now offers his services to those sustaining Loss or Damage by Firs to properly insured. In making out their proofs of such loss or damage in full compliance with the intricate and cunning conditions of Policies of Insurance, in such a macuer as to obvates plea or excuse for reduction or litigation by companies so inclined, or others. He is seasied by the best legal counsel in Philadelphia, and will give particular attention to the Collection of Olaima squants Insurance Companies.

It is known by many who have sustained loss by Fire to properly insured, and it has also been the experience of the undersigned, that policies are frequently declared partially or entirely void at a certain time after a fire occurs, in consequence of carelessees or mismansgement in effecting the insurance, or for some other cause, which, although an important fact, is scarcely ever discovered or thought of, until it is too late. In order to avoid such disastrous occurrences, the undersigned will also effect Insurance in any Companies desired, and examine policies effected by others, (in most cakes) free of extra charge.

Parties sustaining loss or damage by fire, as above, will also enter the analysis and examine politics effected by others (in most cases free of extra charge.

Parties sustaining loss or damage by fire, as above will find it to their interest to consult the undersigne as soon after the fire as pessible.

A NEW YEAR'S OFFERING.
DR. COGGSWELL'S ANTIPHLOGISTIO SALT,
PRICE BEDUOED ONE HALF!
Believing that many are deterred from purobasing this valuable remedy for Inflammatory Diseases by its seemingly high cost, and desirous that the entire public should give it a fair trial, staring also in the spirit of the season and wishing goed to many, we have been induced to offer it at one-half the regalar price on New Year's day and the following week.
We do not ask to be rewarded for our serifice, as our confidence in this modificies is such that for every one induced to try it, we expect to sell to many more of als acquaintance. The Medical Salt is the prescription of an eminent physician, and instead of being a remedy for all diseases, it is proccribed for but one class, has but one aim, accomplishes but one thing, viz: subdues Inflammatory Disease, whatever its form or locality.
Alresdy many have been cured. Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headache, Inflamed Lunge, and Liver, and like complaints, yield radily to its influence. Descriptive direculars may be obtained from any druggist.
Those in this city, having the Medical Salt for sale, will please notice the change in price from January 1st to 8th, inclusive.
