Baip Geo F Patten, Mitchell, o'f days from Bristol, E, with 1000 tons ralicould iron, for N York, for the safety of which fears were entertained, put into St George, Bermuda, 16th uit. In distress, being under jury masts, having lost bowsprit, loremast, mainmast just below the top, and misson topgalant mast, with every thing attached. This severs casualty occurred-in about lat 42, long 60, while Iping to during, a heavy gale from the westward. The H F P left Bristol Nov 8, and had made favorable progress until 10sc 28, which their encountered the gale. Had been lying to in the storm 26 hours, when a heavy sea struck the ship on her port bow, carrying away instantaneously the spars and their gear, as above mentioned. I haw work of destruction by the sea was all done within the space of a minute. All the spars and rigging went over the side; except the main lyard, which fell on deek broken into three pleces. Shortly after this the trubles on deek were augmented by the starting of the iron between deeks. Owing to the high ses, and the ship laboring heavily, nothing could be saved from the wrock of spars, &co, which were all out admits, and after much labor the iron in the upper hold was sgain made secure. Most fortunately the ship kept perfectly tight. In the course of four or five days, and almost constant falls of snow and hall, something like jury masta were got, up, but the heavily. lable kept perfectly tight In the course of four or five ideys; amid almost constant falls of now and hail, something like jury maste were got up, but the heavily-laten they was very unmangeable. Endeavored in this condition to make for an American port, but fresh (gales having arisen, Oapt Mitchell was compelled, on the 28th, to bear up for Bermuda. Jan 3, aw a ship to windward, and made signal of distress to her. She approached within a mile and a half, and then inhumanly made off, without even answering the G F P? colors. Same day saw another ship, whole came to the G F P?s assistance. It was the Unmberland, Oapt Merrill, of Portland, from New Orleans for Liverpool; was kindly suppiled with a coil errope, a sail, and small stores, fogether with offers of further aid. After parting with the G, spoke the ship Marola Greenleaf, Murryman, and received kind offers of assistance therefrom, but the relief from the Gumberland was sufficient. Capt Mitchell expresses warm gratitine: towards the worthy commanders of these two ships.

At Bermuda Jan 28; ship Geo B Patten, Mitchell; bark Syphax, (of Yarmouth, MS) Shaw, with loss of sails, fore ace main topmasts, from Cardiff for Boston, repg; brig Miamis, from Hayram for Portland, with loss of sails and rigging, condemed and sold hark Grand Tark, Dolliver, was loading remainder of marble from bark E Taylor; brig Beatrice; Duvail, from New York, as 19th, dascharged, was to be hove down to examine bottom, having been ashore; on the rocks at the west end of Bermuda.
