Burnett's Cocoaine.
BURNETT'S COCOAINE.
BURNETT'S COCOAINE.

A compound of Cocoa-nut Oil, &c., for dressing the Hair. For efficacy and agreeableness, it is without an equal.

It prevents the hair from falling off.
It promotes its healthy and vigorous growth.
It is not greasy or sticky.
It leaves no disagreeable odor.
It softens the hair when hard and dry.
It soothes the irritated scalp skin.
It affords an richest lustre.
It remains longest in effect.
It costs fifty cents for a half pint bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

BOSTON, July 19, 1857.

☞ MESSRS. J. BURNETT & Co.: I cannot refuse to state the salutary effect in my own aggravated case of your excellent Hair Oil—(Cocoaine.)

For many months my hair had been falling off, until I was fearful of losing it entirely. The skin upon my head became gradually more and more inflamed, so that I could not touch it without pain. This irritated condition I attributed to the use of various advertised hair washes, which I have since been told contain camphene spirit.

By the advice of my physician, to whom you had shown your process of purifying the Oil, I commenced its use the last week in June. The first application allayed the itching and irritation; in three or four days the redness and tenderness disappeared—the hair ceased to fall, and I have now a thick growth of new hair.

I trust that others, similarly afflicted, will be induced to try the same remedy.

Yours, very truly,
SUSAN R. POPE.

PHILADELPHIA, February 19, 1859 fe23-12

Philadelphia, February 22, 1859.—TO THE EDITOR THE PRESS.—SIR: In your paper of this date, there is a publication headed "A Card," and signed by De Haven & Brother, in which not only gross injustice is done to me, but such a misstatement of facts that compels me to notice, and give truth instead of untruth. On the afternoon of the 10th, Mr. Hugh De Haven was brought into my office by Detective Officers Smith and Hartholomew, on a search warrant issued by the Mayor of the City, directing them to bring one Hugh De Haven before me, and certain notes of the Bank of Pennsylvania, which they were charged had been stolen on the night previous, from the office of John Goforth, Esq. At the hearing of the case Mr. Goforth identified the notes, and the defendant refused to deliver them up, or give any information that would lead to the detection of the thief who committed a midnight robbery. I allowed Mr. De Haven to remain in my office nearly two hours, and told him the notes were in possession of the law, and it was his duty as a good citizen, to give all the information that would lead to the arrest of the thief. This he positively refused to do. Mr. De Haven appeared to be laboring under great excitement and I gave him the use of my private office while he was before me, during which he never requested me to send for any of his friends, but thanked me for my forbearance and demeanor towards him. He finally left my office in custody of the officers; after which I was visited by his counsel, and was assured by him I had done nothing more than my duty in the premises. 1t*
