I visited the prigon where Mr. Sickles is con-fined, this morning, About 11 o'clock, and found him engaged in conversation with Mr. and Mrs. The lecture opened with a brief allusion to the Bagioli, the parents of Mrs. Sickles, and Mr. Charles K. Graham, engineer in the Brooklyn navy yard, a particular friend of Mr. Sickles. The conversation insted some thirty minutes, and, judging from the broken Schs eccaping the room, must have been of a most affooting character. Presently Mr. and Mrs. Ba-gioli emerged from the room in which Mr. Sickles for the present is confined, until a cell can be properly fitted up for him. She is a fine-looking oman, rather well advanced in years, and was leaning on the arm of Mr. Grabam, and sobbing in a most violent manner. Mr. Bagioli appeared to be more compessed, although apparently quite affected. The party stepped into a carriage outside the prison, and rapidly drove off. What the particulars of this conversation may have been, I did not learn. It must certainly have been heart-ronding in the extreme, and the effect was visible in Mr. Sickles, he being unable to control his feelings for, some time after the party had left the prison. It was, indeed, a sad sight, and one long to be impressed upon my memory. Qaite a number of the friends of Mr. Sickles
