A new play make on the event was about to come off. A new play be about the in-teresting occasion. It was not a new play by an anony-mous or unknown author, but a fresh contribution to dramatic literature, by one who had wan fame and for-ture as norelist, playwight, and politicism-sir Ed-ward Lytion Bulwer. That play was the brilliant dra-matic satire of "Money." This comedy was a great success, for, apart from its intrinsic literature, from the highest to the low. est, being personated by artiste of rehown in their pro-eak indurnul character, from the highest to the low.

est, being persparted by artists of renown in their pro-fession-Macready, Skitckland, David Rees, Wrench, Mrs. Glover, Vining, Webster, Waiter Lacy, Helen Faucit, &c. Where are they now? The first enjoying his ofium cum dignitate, the next four shining light of the stage dead long years ago, and the remainder in their professional decadence. Nineteen years have flown by, yet Bulwar's comedy is just as applicable to the present times as it was to those of 1840-nor is its aptitude confined to the coun-try of its, bitts, for each character is individualised in By the arrival as flavana of the great nation must be resorted to. The whole is us aptitude confided to the connuclear and the will probably be necessary to use the funds re-ceived for postage without their having been previously appropriated by Congress, and a very dangerona precedent may thus be 68 tabliabed. These avits are so great that they probably outweigh any dissovantages that might arise from an extra session. The country would rise up in indignation against a total and general, or any important interruption. of the mail system of communication between the and system of communication between the and set an ordenation and are so great that they indignation an extra session. One cause of the hesitancy in calling an ex-tra session is, no doubt, of a purely partisan nature. All the Northern States have alroady elected their members of the present Con-gress, while in a number of the Southern States no such elections have yet been, held; and, the regular time for holding them in and the regular time for holding them in

If only the members now elected were called tolife like portraite, yet admirable in their contrast-por gether, the control of the House would be enirely in the hands of the Republican party. f the elections in the Southern States termiste, as is probable from their political comexion, it will be impossible for the Republians to have a majority in that body. Yee, though nineteen yeaks have passed, and the conjedy of "Monsy" was written for another hemisphere, and to split the ext-gencies of a totally different phase of society to our own, the safirs is junt as keen, pollaked, and applicable to us now as it was to those for whose instruction and reformation it was peaned. The question attess-how was "Monsy" produced and played last night? The house was crowded; and the andiscop testified their approbation, loudly and re quently, of the miss or societs, the celebrated (lub-scene, in act III, generally omitted in most theatres, on account of the cost, difficulties, and yight of phase, hay market Theatre, on the original production of the play. South Americans, combined will have a ma-jority ; but it is probable that those elected as mpton Democrats, could control the louse by uniting their forces with the other the Democratic party. The Administration would be lamentably weak in a House called before the Southern States had an opportunity of being represent-ed in it. For this reason, as well as for the proper and, just one of giving every State of the Union a fair hearing in the coun-olds of the mation, it is said that if an extra section is called, it will not be convened before club livery, and not in the contume of a " gentlems gentleman."
