WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23, 1859. Illinois Normal University. We have before us the report of the Illinois Normal University. It is an interesting document giving the history, location, resources and prospects of the institution. It proves that the people of the great West are alive to the importance of common school education

The building now in progress of erection is to cost $83,000. When completed, it will be by far the largest and duest Normal select ouilding in the Union. It is intended to accommodate five hundred scholars. Truly, in the language of the Secretary of the Board, we may say, "if every school-house in the land be a watch-tower of liberty, this beautiful. structure, when completed, will be an impregnable fortress, against which the wild waves the eminent landscape gardener of German-town, in this city, thus affording the pupils an attractive pleasure-ground of some fifty-six acres, adorned with trees, shrubs, and flowers. Each Representative district in the State is ntitled to its quots of pupils. At present the institution occupies temporary quarters in Bloomington, and contains students from every section of the State. When these pupils go out-to teach in the common chools—they will give valuable evidence of the usefulness of the Normal University. It

NEW YORK, March 21, 1859. I have just received the Knicke bocker Magazine for April, and and you a slight sketch of the articles and the names of the authors. The first paper, "The Evangel of Rubadub," is by Charles T. Congdon, and pens a heavy battery against spiritualism, and the be nighted individuals who believe, or pretend to believe in that detectable doctrine. I agree with the au stitutions, certain musty notions, certain well beloved prejudices, certain venerable human feel beloved prejudices; certain 'enerable human feelings, which we do not care to abandon upon' the demand of any mountebank or madman?' Next, Dr.
Cagood 'turnishes "Dante from the Modern Point of View," which is a mix ure of biog anby and analysis of character. The article opens well, and concludes with that most prominent senterce in the Ledger—" to be continued." "Whaling in the Straits of Timor," by Dunian McLean, is an exciting description of an expedition after sperm whales, showing the dangers imminent over those who spend their lives in seeking his cell in the Righth, ward station-house we noticed in after light. "Frozen to Death" is a short poem founded on the death of au nuknown female; last Janu ary, in this city, from exposure to the weather during the "cold term." "One of the Nights of my Eife," by whom written I do not know, is a description of the SPRING TRADE NOTICE whom written 1 do not know, is a description of the borrors experienced by "severial" unprotected famales, frightened by the prants of misablevons friends, when left in a lonely house at pight. "Phaney their pheelinks." "A Dream by a Desolate Hearth," by W. 8, pile of shavings in the year attached to a calculation of the production of the pile of shavings in the year attached to a calculation. P. Prof. Howard Creeby, is a dissertation on " Egyptole gr, or the importance of Egyptian lore to the develop-ment of cassic and historic knowledge," and con-cludes with an appeal in favor of the project, now agi-tated, of purchasing the Abbott collection of Egyptian antiquities for the Historical Society. "The Street mployments of New York," by Mr. De Coidova gives an entertaining description of the persons and habits of sundry perivateito or rather nomadic nuisances, comprising the organ-grinder, the stationery or "four-cent" man, of whose 'mysterious disappearance"; lately informed you, and the "glass-p'reen" man, or wandering glazier. The concluding article, a poem by T. B. Aldrich, entitled "Mr. Lothario's Apology, is a neatly-turned excuse, made by a love to his mistress, for kissing her cousin, in which nefarious act he was caught by the "Original Jacobs." extensive stores on Chambers street, which they occupy The "Gossip" is of all sorts of things, strung together with the tast for which "Mr Klerk" is famous.

Happer's Magazine for April has the following articles: "Wrecking on the Florida Kage," a description of the operation of the wreaters on the Florida coast, who lie in wait for ill-fated ships. All is flab that comes to their net, and although not exactly definers of men," they are rather sharkish in disposition. "Bewa's of the Dry Tort. gas," is the con-cluding advice of the article, "The Ohristian Mirtyrs of Madagascar," by Mr. Nordhoff, is a compilation from or management. By Mr. Rownon, we a compination from "Three Visits to fisialgaster," &c, by the Ray. Wm Ellis, and will prove interesting to those who have not read the work theelf. Mr Ohirles Hallock furnishes an account of the trials and tribulations of Mr. C. Sharpe Penman, on his travels in Minnesota, entitled "The Red read the work itself. Mr Charles Hallock furnishes an around of the trials and tributations of Mr. C. Sharpe Penman, on his travels in Minnesota, entitled "The Hed Biver Trail," which is to be continued. "The Oavily K. isa," by M. W. T. Rock, is a narrative of New York detective experience, describing the discovery of a burglar by means of a kiss. The genilemen who entertain loose ideas respecting the meum and sum principle, will take notice, and be particular how they bestow their labial favors, lest, as in this instance, there should be a elip betwirk the cup and the lip. "Porphyregenitus" is the title of a poem by Bayard Trylor. "Head and Heart" is a love story, exhibiting the power of that little shayer who so often "draws the lorg bow" and excites the cupid-ity and selfshness of United States District Court—Judge A print which has done more good to the retailers through the country, the last season, than perhaps any other low-price print. Thackeray's "Virg'nians" concludes the The funeral of Mike Walsh took place yesterday, and was one of those unusual demonstrations that occir only in large cities and with representative men of a peculiar character. He was a ran of talent, but altegather impracticable. He was sought by men in position, for his influence with those among whom his time was mostly pessed; but those very associations, coupled with his unfortunate habits, precluded him from coloring the public respect. The funeral was imposing. It was not an assemblage, but a multitude, that gathered to pay the last tribute of respect; but the prominent persons of the scene were politiciaus and pritissus. The pall bearers were George Wilkes, Justice Connolly, L. J. Williamron, extended that he want to the house, but in extended the weather. For several weeks to come, at all events, Niblo and his capable and affable first lieutenant, Wm. A. Moore, will continue to receive the public at the current fifty-cent rate. One of the rumors flying around is, that Mr. Stuart, who has the fee of the property, is about to lease his present marble dry-goods palace to Delmonico, and build an edifice of colossal dimensions where the Metropolitan stands. This, however, I merely mention as one of the topics of street talk, without any belief in its accuracy.
