Indeed, Mr. DISRABLI, in his Speech before the Division, intimated that, on taking office, Lord DERBY told the Queen that; in consequence of the House of Commons having been elected in 1857, under the Ministerial auspices of Lord PALMERSTON, he (DERBY) could not count on the support of more than a third of the members, and that the Queen still pressed him to take office. which he did. The inference here, of course, must be, that her Majesty gave him the usual suthority, if he were defeated in the Com-mons, to convene a new House, by a General Election. We believe that this course will be adopted, and we think it not improbable, so little out-door excitement is there on Reform that the balance of such an election would be favor of the Derby Ministry. Suppose, however, that this Ministry think fit to resign, who shall become Premier ?
