Bewing Machines.

SEWING MACHINES —A PRAC.

TO TIOAL PAMILY BEWING MACHINE FOR 86.

The great novelties of this Machine are its exterishing simplicity, strength, and durability; being readily understood, and zothing to get out of order.

If The Needle (combining a Patent in itself), is so peculiarly constructed that it three ds itself; uses Octon, Bilk, or Lines from the original spool, (without rewinding); makes the Risatic Stitch; parforms its work work by instening its thread at the end of the seam. Each loop, is locked closely one over the other, and drawn firmly late the coloit, by which meuns a more perfect and secure stitch is obtained than Mitherto has been accomplished by Machines of the kind.

One can but admire the beauty and accuracy of its moorements, and the ratire absence of all noise; this slone proves a very great recommendation to it. Another highly important inertis, and one too seldom fistuad in tewing Machines, is the good workmanship, and that each and all the parts are made in Exact Dupiticates, so that in the event of an accident to the Machine, may part can be immediately replaced at a very trifling tout.

York. Report of the Committee on Sewing Machines, before the Franklin Institute, in the City of Philadsiphia, October, 1868.

"The Committee are sware that great prejudice exists against the Single Thread Chain Stitch, owing, in a great degree, to the fault of cheap and badly constructed many experiments with work nitiohed in this manner, and deem the prejudice are erronson one. It is a stitch that can be readily ravelled if it is not properly fastened off, and also liable to rip if a stitch is dropped. dropped.

If The first is owing to carelessness of the operator, the latter is the fault of a bad manhine if If, therefore, a machine can be poduced that will never, under any circumstances, miss its stitch, it must prove of great value to the housekeeper, as with one thread only it works repidly and its capable of doing the generality of plain family sewing."

[] See extract from Baltimore Patriot and Commercial Gasatte—Bartlett's Patent Novelty 38. Sewing Machines may truly be regarded as a philanthropic and most wonderful invention.
