PERSONAL AND POLITICAL. B. DONNELLY STILL LIVES .- A waggish correspondent of the Mobile Register having con tructed an ingenious argument to prove that B. connelly, the individual to whom Gov. Wise's letter on New York politics had been sent, had no real existence, and this argument having been re-published in the New York Evening Post, B. onnelly conclusively shows that he is a veritable he latter paper:

"The sceptical correspondent of the Mobile Register, whose last effusion you have printed, is laboring under the impression that 'B. Donnelly & Co., No. 3 William street, New York,' is a myth. A Co., No. 3 William street, New York, is a myth. Such is not the case, we are happy to inform you. Our business has been in successful operation since last May, and is daily increasing. We are importing an article of gin (being in the liquor business) to be called the. Regency Gin. Details will be given in a few days, by advertigement, in every paper in the United States; and we only desire to say, at this time, that it will be of a superior quality, intended for the use of politicians at conventions. One bottle will carry a primary election, two will suffice for a county convention, and conviction will suffice for a county convention. and ten, it is guarantied. will control a State con PLECTION IN NEW MEXICO.-A corresponden

"Our Territorial election for delegate to Congress and both branches of the Legislature came off on Monday, the 5th instant, and returns enough have been received to insure the re-election of Hon. Miguel A Olero, the candidate of the National Bourgastic authors are to over Lea Monachi and Hon. Miguel A Otero, the candidate of the National Democratic party, over Jose Manuel Gallegos, the Opposition candidate, by at least 2,000 majority. Both branches of the Legislature are also largely Democratic. Mr. Hugh N. Smith, who abandoned the National Democratic party, was beaten for Senator in this district by the Hon. M. Ashurat, by about 400 majority. Thus our people have approved of the law passed by our last Legislature, protecting slave property in this Territory."

"The Democratic Convention at Trenton also passed resolutions reiterating in the most emphatic manner their adherence to the Cincinnati platform, as explained in the preceding part of this article, thus showing that the entire Democratic party of New Jersey occupy the same position that the anti-Lecompton portion of the party has maintained throughout. This action of the Convention removes all causes of difference between the two wings of the party. If the anti-Lecompton portion of the party would continue to support those principles for which they so carnestly labored last fall, and which the action of the State Convention has declared to be the platform of the party throughout the State, they must necessarily support the action of that Convention by supporting its nomines for Governor."

"Some of our Opposition colemporaries appear to be considerably exercised as to what course the anti-Lecompton Democrats will pursue in Warren and elsowhere. In order that their minds may be relieved from any uncertainty on this subject, we will distinctly state for their information, that whatever the local differences may be between the Democrats in Warren, arising purely from neighborhood feeling, on State and National issues, so long as anti-Lecompton Democrats are fairly treated, and the platform adopted at the State Convention is faithfully althored to, we cannot do otherwise, under the circumstances, than support the nomination of General Wright.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

English View of the Irish Revival. Since the cessation of the Irish Revival.

Since the cessation of the Italian war, one of the most absorbing topics of the English Press is the religious revival in Ireland. That it is a very remarkable work in all its phases is unquestionable, whether judged from the trans-Atlantic printed recognity of the oral statements of those was have counts, or the oral statements of those who have cently come from where the revival is in progress.

would perhaps be quite as difficult to estimate the Smount of true Christianity, as it would be to letermine the proportion of self-decept practical imposition which may reasonably be supposed to enter into this singular movement. It would therefore be equally unjust to characterize all that passes under the name of revival as the work of the Holy One, as it would be to depounce Jonnelly conclusively shows that no is a veritable it all as a work of the Evil one. That both powers are represented, may be inferred, we imagine, without disparaging in the least whatever good there may be in it. Indeed, it is accepted as an axiom, that no great work of the Spirit has ever been commenced among men without evoking, in the adversary, who, as theologians tell us, is still he accredited "Prince of this World."

As regards the accounts of the present state of things in Ireland, it can matter little whether they are penned by those who sympathize with, or denounce the morement, so far as they relate facts; as the mere opinions of either class, as to whether it is "God's work" or the "Devil's work," are equally good, because both are good for nothing only test of any value that can be applied to this Fe, New Mexico, under date of September 11, are professing their faith in Christ as the Son of movement, or to the thousands who, on its tide,
