She desires to go West, and the late decrees of divorces prohibits her from taking her children out of the State. Mrs. Ben-nett testified, in substance, that though the Doctor had on soveral occasions taken the children from the yard, and once from the hall of the house, he had nover visited the house to see them. She did not know that he treated them unkindly, but he had nover manifested any interest, save as stated. She further said, she thought she had less than $2,500 left of the $4.000 granted her as alimony. On the other hand, Dr. B. claims that the $4,000 and the real estate in George street, which is owned by her and the oblidren, is enough to support them. If says that if she wishes to leave the State vilt-out the children, he will give good bonds to take good eare of them himself. The case is still on.— New Haven Register, Nov. 8.
