In whatever State they are found, North and South, they are, in at least one respect-and in some in many respect-made inferior to the whites by local legislation; and they are so regarded, as we all know, by the common law of social life. Thrown into our large cities, after they are forced to leave other States, they are certain to become a charge upon the community, if not an element inciting to popular tumult. Thus expelled from the States South, and after awhile from the States and cities North, they will be thrown into British America and Canada.
