GENTLEMEN: I have received, with feelings of profound sympathy, your invitation to be present and deliver an oration on the cocasion of the fun-rul coremonies in New York in honor of the late Senator, Broderlok. I never had the pleasure of a porsonal acquintance with Mr. Broderlok until he essene to Washington as Senator from Californis. No man, udder circumstances so unpropilous, sver established in that body a prouder and more end-sible reputation in so short a poriod. His vigorous litelect, the frankness and sincerity of his charac-tiv, his resolute purpose and resistless energy, his fidelity to principle, to dute, and to friends, com-mined the respect and world the admiration of his associates. His and on the shorts a gloom over the Senate, as it starlied and shocked the whole conniry. It is peculiarly appropriate that his dolity to principle down in back, and who lowed him most because they knew him bast, should ma-nifiest their admiration for his virtues and their sor-row for his damiration for his virtues and their sor-row for his damiration for his virtues and their sor-row for his damiration for his virtues and their sor-row for his damiration for his virtues and their sor-row for his damiration for his virtues and their sor-row for his damiration for his virtues and their sor-row for his damiration for his virtues and their sor-names that it will be possible for me to be with you on that interesting and solesmo occasion.
