T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, dc-3t 306 CHESTNUT St., above Third, Phila. Saturday evening. A crowd surrounded the building where they were placed, but the police dispersed them. Says the Times:

"Afterwards several persons were admitted to the room; the lid of the coffin was removed, expessing to view the face and breast. The features would have been instantly recognised as those of Jehn Brown by any one who had seen his photograph. They were not in the least distorted, and wore a calm expression as one saleep. The lids were closed naturally, and there was a slight bruise perceptible on the side of the right eye. The body was drowed in the clothes in which he was executed.

"No demonstration of any kind took place in the city with reference to the arrival or departure of the body, although it had been remored that the remains would be conveyed to the Church of the Puritans (Dr. Cheever's), where funeral coremonies would be performed. A strong desire for such a demonstration in this city was expressed by many, but the movement was decided to be impracticable under the circumstances, beside being in opposition to the plainly expressed wishes of deceased, concerning the disposition of his body. Arrangements are made for the funeral rites upon the arrival of the remains at North Kiba." Ward Beecher holds to-day as a pulpit crater and lecturer has become a matter of universal comment, both hore and abroad. He may be said to be a thoroughly original genius—he honce says and does successfully what in his imitators becomes ridiculous. In his mode of resurrecting a dead thought and investing it with life and beauty, Mr. Beecher is unapproached by any other living orator. No matter how much men may differ with him in the sentiments he holds, none hear him without admiring his sloquence. For this reason. Mr. Beecher always commands a crowded audience. We have no hall which his popularity is not sufficient to fill. We have already announced that the concluding lecture of
