A Fact Well Remembered. In the great contest upon the slavery question in 1848 and 1850, the Southern men insisted upon the extension of the Missouri Compromise to the Pacific Ocean. They were willing to abide by that measure as a fair division between the two sections of the territory acquired from Mexico. On motion of Douglas the Senate passed the Missouri Compromise bill. It was then that the Missouri Compromise line was drawn. It was then that the Missouri Compromise line was drawn. It was then that the Missouri Compromise line was drawn.

The Pennsylvania Institute for the Inebriate. We have received the twenty-seventh annual report of the managers of this useful institution, and are glad to learn that it is a prosperous condition, and contains increasing signs of usefulness. It now contains one hundred and fifty-three pupils, one hundred and thirty-two of whom are Pennsylvania, twelve from New Jersey, and four from the State of Delaware. It has also devoted special care to the discovery of a method whereby its pupils, after receiving the usual instruction, could earn a livelihood, and thus be enabled to support themselves without any aid from the State.

Public Amusements. Walker's Pantomime.—Miss Davern's pantomime is a new and original production. It is a grand deal too much for the patience of any audience. Letter from "Occasional"

The news from Europe by the Overland, and the Africa, is of a startling nature. In the first place, it appears probable that the Palmerston Ministry will be defeated upon the question of the Reform Bill; secondly, it appears that such a defeat would mean the fall of the Ministry, and a return to the rule of the Tories.

The Reform Bill. The Reform Bill has been introduced into the House of Commons. It is a bill to amend the Representation of the People Act, 1832, and to give effect to the recommendations of the Royal Commission.
