MEDICINAL.

MRS. WINSLOW,

AN EXPERIENCED NURSE AND FEMALE Physician, presents to the attention of mothers her

SOOTHING SYRUP

FOR CHILDREN TEETHING,

which greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation; will allay ALL PAIN and spasmodic action, and is

SURE TO REGULATE THE BOWELS.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves and

RELIEF AND HEALTH TO YOUR INFANTS.

We have put up and sold * this article for over ten years, and can say, in confidence and truth of it, what we have never been able to say of any other MEDICINE, NEVER, IN A SINGLE INSTANCE, TO EFFECT A CURE, when timely used. Never did dissatisfaction by any one, to our knowledge, follow its use. In all cases of CHOLERA INFANTUM, (so fatal in its consequences,) DYSENTERY, and DIARRHŒA IN CHILDREN, whether it arises from teething or from any other cause, we would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the following complaints, or has the prejudices of friends or nurses to overcome, do not let your prejudices, others, and between the relief that will be given by MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP—follow its timely use. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle, signed by CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.

"My Kingdom for a Horse."

A HUSBAND'S SOLILOQUY.

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

Not long ago I loved a maid
Who lived some miles away,
And twice a week I rode to her
On father's dapple grey;
But father said he faithful beast,
And bitter was my loss;
I sighed to see my love, and cried,
"My kingdom for a horse!"

She wrote a note: "My Charley dear,
What keeps thee, love, away?
I've watched and watched to see thee come
Upon thy dapple grey.
I fear thy love is not as gold,
But only worthless dross—"
Oh! cruel words! I wildly cried,
"My kingdom for a horse!"

I went on foot to seek her hand,
And her to church I led;
Three months have past, and I have now
A broken heart and head.
My wife's a Tartar! I have wounds
Which will my words endorse;
I would that leaves between us lay—
"My kingdom for a horse!"

NOTE.

The man thus grieved would never buy
His clothes at Tower Hall;
His lack of taste provoked his wife,
Whose wrath on him did fall.
She used the broom upon his head,
And, filled with keen remorse,
Like vanquished Richard, he exclaimed:
"My kingdom for a horse!"

PRINCE IMPERIAL

CHAMPAGNE,

FROM DE VENOGE & CO., EPERNAY, FRANCE.

Sold by all Respectable Dealers throughout the country.

This fine brand of CHAMPAGNE, which until the past year was confined exclusively to the best tables of the Continent of Europe, has now obtained the most unbounded success and popularity in this country. It is recommended by some of the first physicians of the city of New York, over all other wines, on account of its extreme purity and delicacy, and those who once try it rarely use any other brand. Although only one year has elapsed since its introduction into this country, the demand is enormous and constantly increasing. Our arrangements are such as to insure the quality of the Wine being maintained at its present high standard. The Prince Imperial is imported solely by us, we being the sole AGENTS of Messrs. De Venoge & Co., in this country.

SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1860.

Dinner to Gibson Peacock, Esq.

On Thursday, Gibson Peacock, Esq., editor and principal proprietor of the Evening Bulletin, of this city, was entertained with a complimentary dinner at the La Pierre House. Messrs. Ward endeavored, on this occasion, to surpass their usual performances, and succeeded. The results of the cuisine and the vineyard were super-excellent. The table itself was quite a picture, with its sparkle of crystal, and plate, and China, a bouquet before each member of the party, and a mammoth bouquet in the centre, a very monarch of floral beauty.

The chair was occupied by Morton McMichael, Editor of the North American, with Charles Macgarge, Esq., as vice-chairman. The remainder of the company included Gibson Peacock, Esq., Professor Coppée, Mr. Pancoast, Germantown; J. B. Lippincott, Esq., E. H. Butler, Esq., T. B. Peterson, Esq., George W. Childs Esq., Louis A. Godey, of Godey's Lady's Book; Charles J. Peterson, of Peterson's Magazine; Daniel Dougherty, Esq., Thompson Westcott, Esq., Sunday Dispatch; Col. Fitzgerald, City Item; Isaac C. Pray, Esq., Inquirer, and Col. J. W. Forney, and Dr. Shelton Mackenzie, of The Press.

In the course of the evening, most of the above named "were heard from," in one way or the other. The book-publishers, who occasionally exercised, in a very spirited manner, their powers of appreciation and applause, may be said, during the whole evening, to have illuminated the proceedings by successive brilliant flashes of silence!

We do not report the proceedings in anything like detail—for the entertainment was a personal compliment to a popular editor—and, therefore, shall only say that Mr. McMichael proposed Mr. Peacock's health (on the occasion of his becoming editor and principal proprietor of the Bulletin) in complimentary and suitable terms, which happily expressed the feelings of the company, and that Mr. Peacock, after briefly acknowledging the honor in a short speech, said that, being more accustomed to use the pen than the tongue, and distrusting his ability to express himself as he desired, under the compliments paid to him, he had thrown his thoughts into the form of verse, which he should beg leave to read. The following witty lines, to which he did justice by the expressive manner of his reading, were well received, and deserve to live beyond the occasion which produced them:

A modern miracle! My generous friends,
Your kindness to my dulness language lends:
You bid me dine with you: I dine, and lo!
From lips inelocuent the numbers flow.
The words are poor, the ideas flat and old,
The thanks are the stale story, better told
By thousands before me; but never once
More deeply felt by any, age or dunce.
The wonder is that I have aught to say;
This is our little miracle to-day.
But, my good friends, to use a common word,
In circles more polite than this often heard,
Dinners are "institutions," and become
At times good Institutions for the Dumb.
Thus I'm inspired: pray, which of a'll the Nine
Is the good Muse that smiles when mortals dine?

We men of types are sometimes types of men—
Excuse the shop-phrase, brethren of the pen:
Pregnant with one small thought, I use it here
To aid my labor, which is drawing near.

A French girl's marriage-portion—house and lot,
Stocks, money, jewels—all are called her dot;
(I sound the t, por turn the dot to dough,
The true Parisians always call it so.)
Hence comes an illustration: little I,
Long fixed in lower-case, am raised on high;
Moved to the upper-case, where each proud letter
Looks down and says, "of types we are the better."
Unlike the poor undowered Parisienne,
Blighted or scorned by every sort of men,
Poor lower-case I, because I've lost my dot,
A capital position thus have got.
Hence am I honored, hence this generous feast,
To welcome to your ranks the very least
And humblest of the men of pen and ink,
Who yet strive round and pompous men to think.
"Here am I welcomed by these brethren true,
Capital fellows, every one of you."

Here sits the PRESS at ease before his wine;
The power so dreaded condescends to dine.
There's nothing awful in his dinner mien;
He talks, and jokes, and smiles, and looks serene;
He feels a hearty welcome in the echo,
He bends to human pleasure, human fun.
For one fine evening he has laid aside
His politics, his prejudice, his pride.
Don't talk to night of war with Mexico,
Don't name Napoleon Third or Francis Jo,
Don't hint of Presidential candidates,
Or politics of cities or of States:
The Press is dining; let the world outside
Dare to disturb the hours thus sanctified!

Now, while the generous glasses smile and shine,
Their glow reflected in your eyes and mine,
Their warm blood mixed with our strange combination!
Their spirits in our frames—strange transmigration!
Now, while the fit of fellowship is on us,
And the mood still that round the board has drawn us
Still animates our breasts—a common status
A bright new era in our Fourth Estate—
An era of kind feeling, liberal thought,
Unmixed with vulgar rivalry, or aught
That idle lookers-on can s'ur or carry
As petty spite or low-bred jealousy.

Here are some men of books, prepared to see
How we, their judges, act in company:
The critics must be criticised by those
Who make the books, their common, natural foes:
Let not these publishers of name and fame
Have aught to publish to the PRESS's shame.

Here are some men of law, of aspect fair,
Yet scenting libels e'en in this pure air;
Hunting for defamations here at dinner,
And asking his deserts for every sinner;
Ready to give four months to any chap at all,
Or hang him, if his crime is very capital:
Give no encouragement to any of these;
We're men of peace—we'll fool them of their fees.

But I forget, and wander from my sphere—
My duty's one of thanks, not counsel, here:
I should seek counsel from you all, content
To do your bidding with a blind consent.
Thus have I acted when you bid me dine,
Thus eaten of your meats, and drunk your wine.
I don't repeat it; nay, I only grieve
That I have nothing in return to leave
But poor, weak words, and these can never say
How much I prize the kindness of this day.

The party broke up about 10 o'clock, after a remarkably pleasant symposium, which Plato himself might have delighted to immortalize.

Mexican Affairs.

The following despatch was received a few days ago from General Houston, tendering to the President five thousand Texan volunteers, to aid in suppressing the disturbances on the Indian and Mexican frontiers of Texas:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
AUSTIN, March 8, 1860.

SIR: Judging from the tenor of despatches from your department to me, of the 29th ult., that the Government has not at its command sufficient troops to afford the immediate protection to Texas desired, I herewith tender the services of five thousand volunteers. Texas is ready for the emergency, and will act at a moment's warning. Texas needs, to repel invasion, both from the Indians and Mexico, an immediate supply of arms. In view of the atrocities committed on our people, I hope the department will, and will forward, by steamer or other speedy conveyance, to the care of Messrs. Forbes & Co., of New Orleans, Forbes & McKee, of Fort Lavaca, or Messrs. Rice & Austin, two thousand percussion rifles and appendages, one thousand Sharp's rifles and appendages, three thousand Colt's revolvers and appendages, and one thousand cavalry accoutrements. Texas has always been deficient in arms, and has drawn but few. Danger is upon her now, and she needs them at once. Be pleased to reply by telegraph without delay.

SAM HOUSTON.

In reply to this, the President directed Colonel
