Tyler, a New York lawyer, contains a goo deal of assured fact and sound argume showing that the Word of God is the greatest neans of civilization in the world. The au thor shows his personal vanity by prefixing his engraved portrait as a frontispiece to his book. Who cares to know how Mr. Tyler looks? Published by James Challen & Son. The new edition of Carlyle's Critical and Miscellaneous Essays, in 4 vols., revised and annotated by the author, printed on fine tinted paper, will be published to-day by Brown & Taggart, Boston. It has a copious index, and new portrait, engraved on purpose for this will certainly be the edition of Carlyle.

Those who have admired Darley's Illustra tions, in the new edition of Cooper's novels, will be glad to learn that the publishers (W. A. Townsend & Co., New York) have commenced the issue of "Darley's Cooper Vigettes," artist proofs before letter, printed on India paper, and engraved by the best artists in the country in line and etching. Design and engraving, as well as subjects, are wholly national—being American. The series will consist of eight folios of eight plates each, with descriptive letter-press to each. An en graved title-page and portrait of Mr. Coope will accompany the series. Eight folios o eight plates will cost $3, and only 500 sets will be published, no subscription being received for less than a full set. The two folios of 16 plates, which have appeared, are admirable in all respects, and we are sure that Mr S. McHenry, agent for the publication, 406 Walnut street, will gladly show them to others as he has to us, and with the same result. This work will form a monument of American declaration that Colton's "Lacon, or Many The Cooper Vignettes will find their place in library and parlor tables.

Even if it were true that Dr Hollacher had in his possession incendiary documents, we cannot think the people of Atlanta are so hard up for somebody to mob as to try their hand upon an invalid whose head had grown white in the frosts of seventy winters. It will be remembered that this old gentleman, a short time since, delivered several lectures in Nashville, taking for his text 'Blavery in the Southern States right according to the teachings of the Bible.' His lectures and conversations with our people showed him to be decidedly friendly to the institutions of the South, and we can hardly believe that he would anywhere receive unkind treatment from the hands of Southern people."
