A combination of the friends of the second and third theories mentioned above secured the report which a majority of the committee have determined to present. If the delegates to the Convention received seleries for considering political questions, the discussion of these propositions would be al-most interminable. But most of them are annious to return to their homes, as the journcy to Charleston was a troublesome one, and they can illy afford to neglect their private affairs and incur large additional expenses. From the exigencies of their condition, therefore, they will be obliged to arrive speedily at a definite conclusion, and while impracticable theorists may be tolerated for a short time the Convention will not long consent to in dalgo them in truitless discussions.

The Circassian Exodus. The Journal de Poren says that since the metilication of the Cancasus, most of the mountaineers are leaving their country in large masses. The last news from Odean in-forms us, that 65,000 Circulates came to Constantinople through Aners and Kertch. Two thirds of them were sent to Asia. The emi gration of that unhappy nation is continually increasing. There came recently to Constantheple 1,000 men via Trebisond and from Brierum ; there are coming 150 warriors from Dashertan, which will be followed in the spring by 30 000 Lenghans, with their cattle, their fortunes, goods, and families been made odlous by vetces, by discussion, and by delay; and yet it is, in my opinion, as just and righteens a claim as ever was advocated or passed. Many of the original parties have be-come beggars by this persistent portforment and rejection of their demands. Many have sold out their rights at a frightful discount to great corpora-tions; and these latter, in their turn, are de-neared because they are not original claimants! Is this not reputistion in another shape? "How not to do it?" is the motto here as it is in Binsland is this how the second is notorious, also, that thousands of really uprigh demands are delayed to death, or mercilless slaughtered outright. It makes my heart bleed when one of these cases is presented. Who shall amend this evil? What reforming hand shall implify this complex code of procrasiination and instice ?!

The Southern men at Charleston have a double barrelied polloy to defeat Douglas. They no only wish to make the platform, but to defeat him This is moderate and refreshing. CHARLESTON, April 26, 1860. The tariff resolution offered by Mr. CESSNA, from your State, in the National Convention to-day, was received with as much applause as the resolu tion relative to the Pacific Railroad.

The resolution offered by, N. B. BROWNE, postmaster of your city, which declared that the Supreme Court has decided that neither the Territorial Legislatures nor Congress can interfere presents his populous and wealthy district. His torial Legislatures nor Congress can interfere gentiemanlike deportment and conscientious district with the right to hold slaves in the Territories, is regarded as the most extreme proposition yet offered in the Convention, and was ridiouled even by the delegates from the South. The resolution offered by Mr. Honn, of Wisconsin, declaring that the famous letter of Mr. Bu-ORAWAN, in accepting the nomination of the Cinclanati Convention, in which he said that the people of a Territory, like those of a State, should determine the nature of their domestic institutions was the true doctrine on the subject of slavery, was regarded by many delegates as eminently sound, and was, therefore, referred to the Committee on Resolutions, for their instruction. It oreated much sughter, on account of its wide dif-facence from the present attitude of the Adminis-union South would accept.
