We are now about entering a political contest only equalled in importance (and iso say after de-the consideration, and in obedience to my solemn convicions) by the great atraggle to which we owe our civil liberity, and which called forth the hereism of a Washington, the eloquence of a Henry, and the magnanimous patricism of a Morris. An attempt to force upon the constry the "irrepressible-onflict doctrine," first tanght by Abs Lincoin, and choed throughout the land by that prince of escionsilist, William H. Seward, is now, being made in the North and in the South. It is need-less for me to say to this irredom-loving mass that such an astagonism would most certainly in-volve the vitality and perpetuity of the Ameri-can Union, and, per consequence, the fate of divil liberiy and social happiness throughout the world. In an immense empire, such as that over which the happer of the "stars and atripes" waves in ity unequalied magnif-cence, the local and sectional feelings of its differ-ent divisions are nocessarily hottle and intense; enlisting on either side armises which, if brongent in conflot, must prove alarming destructive to each other-moving forward to conquer or to die-aod animated and fired by the strongest passions of the human breast, and aurendering only when the prise for which they fight has been tranpled in the duast destroyed and ruined. They pirto in the forders of Liberty herself; and speaking clearly within bounds, the issue would be fastfully uncertain. And, my fellow-relies in speak, while immentable crises may be avoided. That course is simply to pursue, with fdelity, the polar-star of our Kepublic; to adhere strictly and decidedly to the fundamental prisolies ef the American Go-vernment, and carry out that great ides growing out of the divasity or unit the strict. We are now about entering ons in argument, they arrive at pr remedy for all their troubles, as liews of both these classes of extremists or the on-bad than the remedy they propose. They son-found all the rules of logic, and seek only to con-fuse the understandings of men. Morbid sensibility in the one class, often resulting from a tottering intellect, produces the same effect as towering am-intellect, produces the same effect as towering ambition and utter selfshness in the other. Neither comprehend the practical lessons of life, for they both defide the taschings of experience, and resist the integrity of contracts. That elevating sympathy which expands the mind and purifies the heart does not conneil the plasing of deadly plkes in the hands of ignorant negroes, that they may destroy a superior race and debauch a usion, any more than it seeks to ranew the horrors of the slave trade by evading the laws of our country and of humanity. Whatever grievances society has to redress, wisdom directs that the remedy shall be applied with calm-ness, after mature deliberation. Beforms, to be effectual, must be gradual. Violeut remedies are generally productive of mischelf. The human ind receives its knowledge in minute quantities, until the aggregated matter is sufficient to form the intellect.

This, sir, the most malignant tradmeers of that great stateman, in Pennsylvania, pronounce a political necossity, imporatively demanded, if we desire to elect, next fail, any candidate, from county anditor to President. No man, except perhaps Washington-and Jacokson, has ever held the masses of all parties so firmly bound to him with a phan of mental, heartfelt sympathy, and concurrent, instinctive patriotism, as does the Illinois Senator to-day. A disregard of this pervading sentiment at Baltimore would be suicidal madness, and the confidence inspired by the history of the party for-bida any apprehensions that such will be the ra-suit. Moreover, it behovers us to ignore all connec-tion with, and all responsibility for, the follies and or minality of the present Federal Administration, in ord r to have the slightest dawn of hope in the appr aching campaign. A great Amèrican statesman is he who, rogard-less of consequences to existing oliques and fac-tions, regardless of the interests of mero local parties and sectional men, takes a comprehensive view of the fundamental principles of our Govern-ment, and of the interests of the whole country and of the whole people, and devotes binstelf to the defence of the constitutional rights of all the btates, and of the whole country. The distinguished Senator from Ilinois, Stephen A. Douglas, occupies a proud position before the sountry. He has comprehended the wants of his sage and country. Ile points the way to permanent peace; he stands at the bead of the advancing oo-lumn of progressive Democrosy, and invites his countrymen to the realization of a purer light, a higher morality, and a more perfect freedom. At this juncture in our history as a people, how invaluable are the services of such a man? Con-template for a moment our wonderful progress, and our accumulation of weath and glory. It is the rapidity of our advancement which subjects us to so many dangers. We have in New England a system of manufag-iand in its perfection and completeness. The cot-ton fabrics of our powers are in our shorts as the cot-ton fabrics of our hours are for sale in every mart of the world, and their manufacturers are rolling in wealth. In the Middle States we have maxime fastories,

American fepublican institutions—roruLAR SQNB-REIGNTT. Balanongst; those who have been named as candi-attes for the Presidency, Stephen A Douglas is the first and only choice of the unbeught, unpurchase-able messes of the Democracy of Pennsylvania. With him at the standard-bearer of the party, they will raily by legions, and as in days of old, march onward to vlotory, for they will fight under the old storm-statuat and battle-reat banner which they so dearly low, on which through the dim discrowning marks of the, yet peers forth the goldon inscrip-tion, THE PROLE AND THE RIGHT; and if it be thought that more words should be ajded to in-marks of time, yet peers forth the goldon inscrip-tion, TIR FEORLE AND THE RIGHT; and if it be thought that more words should be added to in-crease the ienthusiasm, we have but to append thereunto, Marssurss and MEN, DEMOCRACY and DOUGLAS, and they will not as talkemen to cheer on the trionds of the UNION in the great struggle for our whole country, for the brotherhood of Ameri-caus, for the perpetuation of that glorious outwork-ing of Divine Providence, the FAREHAL REFUNITION and for the maintenance of the CONSTITUTION and its compromises. This meeting is but a faint indication of the popular opinion, for those who come in contact with the people throughout the State hear but one sen-timent overywhere, except among the dependents upon Federal patronage. DougLAS AND VioTORY are synonymbus words, for the people of Pennsyl-vania do mosi honesily and sincerely believe that upon the nomination of Stephen A. Douglas at Baltimore depend not only immediate success and the Keystone State, but the will of the Demo-cratio party of Pennsylramis he truly represented in the Baltimere Convention, there will be no more bending to the decrees of one man, no more gratification of personal animosities, but the dele-gation from this State, resulting the high responsi-
