The Municipal Buildings,

The decision of the Supreme Court yester. day in reference to the injunction asked for to restrain the Board of Commissioners, appoint-ed under the authority of An act of the Legis-lature, at its last session, to make the necessary preliminary arrangements for the erection of new municipal, buildings, from, taking any further measures to discharge the duties imposed upon them, will be read with much interest, and will, we think, give satisfaction to the citizens, of Philadelphia. Singularly enough, while it imposes a strong check upon the action of the Commissioners in regard to the formation of contracts, and subjects them to the approval of Councils, it does so for a reason which was not, we believe, alluded to by any of the counsel who represented these bodies before the Supreme Court. So far as the objections based upon the refusal of two of the judges of the District Court to act with the learth. Manufactories of almost every imagi. Commission, and upon the election of Mr. CULLER as President of the Select Council, as the successor of Mr. COENNAN, who held that while, the great agricultural interest of our position at the time the act was passed, and other mere technical points, were concerned, State is never neglected. Modern improvethe Supreme Court summarily disnissed them, and prohomiced all the sets of the Commission up to this time, including the selection of Penn Square as the location for the new buildings, and the advertisement for proposals, to be perfectly binding and valid. But when the contracts for the erection of the new buildings come up for consideration the original powers of the joity, through her regularly constituted representatives in the Councils, come into full play, and the assent of a majority of both branches of our local legislature will be necessary to render them binding. After contracts are thus legally approved the buildings are to be crected under the direction of the Commissioners.
