The "Trouble" in the Democracy. The most important and serious divisions of the Democracy in the States, the friends of Judge Douglas. In this State, the argument of all the partisans of the Administration is directed against the nomination of Mr. Fremont. The friends of Mr. Fremont are divided into two parties, one of which is the friends of Mr. Fremont, and the other is the friends of Mr. Fremont. Political Intelligence. In answer to numerous letters, we have to state that it will be impossible for Judge Douglas to speak at any point in Pennsylvania except those already published in The Press. He spoke yesterday at Frederick, Maryland, and will, this evening, address the people at Baltimore. On Friday he will be at Harrisburg, on Saturday at Reading, and on Saturday evening at Philadelphia. It is his intention to rest here over Sunday, and on Monday to meet his thousands of friends in the flourishing town of Easton, which may be called the capital of the South. Legions of Democracy are gathering in Pennsylvania. His presence at the monster mass meeting in New York, on the 12th, has been justly promised, and he cannot, therefore, extend his tour in this State until after that day. Saturday evening will present a busy scene to the people of Philadelphia. The Republicans intend holding their special ratification meeting at Penn Square, and Judge Douglas will arrive from Reading, and be welcomed by his numerous friends at Broad and Callowhill streets, and escorted to the place from which he is to address the crowd. Of course, the Buzz and Everett men will have their usual parade, and the confidential supporters of BRECKINRIDGE and LANS will assemble at the corner of Third and Chestnut streets, and will be proceeding, with all the philosophy of men who are well paid for their efforts in sustaining a bad cause.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CANVASS. SPEECH OF MR. BRECKINRIDGE AT LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY. Lexington, Ky., Sept. 5.—Breckinridge was prepared for the Breckinridge barbecue, which came off at Lexington, a mile and a half from the city. At an early hour the roads from all directions were thronged with people. At eleven o'clock A. M. a salute of thirty-three guns announced the arrival of Mr. Breckinridge. He was accompanied by his wife and a retinue of military attendants. Mr. Breckinridge rode on a white horse, and was dressed in a blue frock coat, and a white waistcoat. THE PRINCE ALBERT AT ST. JOHN'S, N. P. The Prince of Wales and the Orange-Whites in Canada, in regard to the reception of the Prince of Wales, we cannot but be glad to see the judicious advice of his Majesty, the Duke of Devonshire, who is very properly and wisely refusing to participate in any public demonstration of a partisan character. Party feeling in Canada frequently becomes excited, and the Prince of Wales, who is a member of the Orange-Whites, is a member of the Orange-Whites.
