on Saturday evening at Penn Square. THE BPEAKING. THE BPEAKING. The speaking was the least imposing of the whole affair. In the early evening it was starles, and the rain drizzied incessanily. A few hundred people surrounded the dimly-lighted stands, and the droys fell cold and constantly. The weather appeared to dampen the enthusiasm. Occasionally, cheers for Uncle Abe would ring out, londy at first, but they struck us as being decidely me-chanical, and the least cheer of the trio would be forced and faint. The crowds convened under the portico of the church, at Broad and Penn Square, were not so downcast. They cheered instity, and, finally, made that spot the leading point in the display. As the evening advanced, the various Wide-Awake clubs came upon the ground. Their splendidly-disciplined lungs and perfect uniform-ity of shout revived the ardor of the wet and obilied irregulars. But there was eventually so much of countermarching, drumming, and fifsing eto, that the rhetorio was considerably impaired through interruption. The main or central stand was crowded with poople at sight o'clock. Mr. Henry C Carey was called to the obair. He made a perfusion. He gave way to the Jon D.
