Democratic Mass Meeting. The meeting of the Democracy last evening at Independence Square, was accepted car Influential of the Democratic leaders and it would be folly to deny that the masses of the party were present in enthusiastic force lutions carefully avoid Presidentia lames, and General Fostes, the Democrati candidate for Governor, substantially repeated all power over the question of slavery in the Territories, and asserting that, in his judgment, the Territorial question would at last become a judicial question." The festure of meeting, however, that stood out mos prominent, and that most addresses itself to General Foster, and to all candidates for office in Pennsylvania at the October election, was the irresistible feeling in favor of DovorAs, and the manifest determination of the Democracy of Philadelphia against all fusion with Disunionists in November. This feeling could not be restrained. Every allusion to the doctrine of non-intervention was answered by instant and uprogrious cheers; and when Mr. BREWSTER, heretofore a friend of Banoninamon, stated it he had been at Charleston and Baltimore he would not have voted for Douglas, but that he would never have left the Convention, and would be bound He by the action of the regular Convention, in stead of skulking out of it, the vast concours responded with quick, repeated, and earnest shouts. The custom-house officers, anticipating the fate that was in store for their prepared scheme of turning the meeting into a fusion meeting, withdrew from the deliberations of the committee, and boldly refused to contritook part in the meeting, among whom were Hon. John C. Knox, the able Attorney General of the State, and Gen. W. H. MILLER, the latter of whom unfurled the flag of non-intervention, and was loudly applauded for his pluck. But we leave the proceedings to speak for themselves.

Liberated Naples. Long before this, we take it for granted, the Bourbon dynasty has ceased to reign in Naples. The news by the Melita, which left Liverpool on the 5th inst., was that Vicron Buzanuzz resolved to interfere in behalf of men, commanded by General DELLA MAR-MORA, who fought so gallantly in the Orimes. The steamship Jura brings two days' later news, to the effect that GARIBALDI was on his march to Naples, where he was anxiously expected,—that the King of Naples was preing to seek safety by flight to Gaeta, and

A Hint to Farmers. The New York Tribune, in an article upon the approaching New York State Agricultural Pair, throws out a suggestion to which we are willing to give additional publicity. It says: "It is the great 'harvest home' holiday of American farmers in this and adjoining States; and it is an occasion that, upon some of the days of its continuance, should call out every farmer, and their wives and sons and daughters, and men servants and maid servants, within easy reach of the place where these annual exhibitions of the rich products of the State are held. On the second day, October 12, there will be a sweepstake for all sgos, 4 mile heats, $200 subscription, and half forfeit, and the Association adds $1,500. The second race that day will be for $500, Association Purse, mile heats. All these races will be run according to the rules of the Fashion Course, New York. Upon this most liberal programme Wilkes' Spirst of the Times, the leading sporting journal in this country, says: "The purses to be given, and the amount of money to be added to the stakes so much ardor and energy at Point Breeze Park."

We agree, to the fullest, in this. The owners of horses ought to come forward liberally in contri-buting their stock to compete for the different stakes, so utusually liberal in amount. Upon the success of this experiment will depend the re-establishment of racing here, and we need not say that if it be re-established a new market will thereby be opened for Southern and Western blood racing stock. The high character and respectability of the Point Breeze Park Association are already well known and appreciated, and their liberality on this occasion shows how deservedly. The upshot of this sort of thing will be to make operatic enterprise so perilous as to do a fatal injury to art. The opening of two rival operas in London has had that effect, the competition raising the demands of artists to a point at which it was impossible for opera to 'pay.'

CONTINUATAL TRETHE.—For some years, while the late W. E. Burton had his New York theatre, his tenor and sopular were Mr. and Mrs. George Helman, who enjoyed, and deserved, no small share of popularity. It is their children, two girls and two boys, who, in conjunction with themselves comprise the Holman Company, which appeared for the first time, in Proverb Operas and Parlor Entertainments, at the Continental Theatre, Walnut street, last night. The parents sing very well, and Mrs. Holman, who is a good planiste, supplies the music. There are two lads, respectively sged about 14 and 12; and two little girls—Sallie, aged 9, and falls 6. From the appearance of these children, (to say nothing of their mother's still blooming aspect,) we think the ages are correctly stated. These are really very surprising little people—worth a ship-load of such rquasking youngsters as the Marsh troupe. They have good youngsters as the Marsh troupe. They have good voices, and have been very well instructed by their parents. They sing, act, dance, and charge dresses with the case, effect, and skill of practiced performers of much older standing. They have no small share of the vis comica. The eldest girl has a wonderful voice for her age,—full, clear, and expressive. We have not space nor time now to give a detailed criticism—but read only say that this is the best, nay the very need only say that this is the best, nay the yery best, juvenile company we have ever seen. A fe-male dwarf, about the size of a loaf of bread set up on end, also sang, and remains with this troupe during their stay here. We shall not be surprised to find every seat in this theatre nightly cocupied, chistly by children, during the per-formances of the Rolman Family.

If this large assemblage will bear with me for a few moments, I will briefly state the reasons why. In my nigment, the preference should be given to General Foster over Colonel Gurtin. My first reason is one that applies more peculiarly to member of the Democratic party, and it is, that he is the candidate of that party, regularly nominated upon a platform of principles which unquestionably embodies the true Democratic creed, whether applied to State or national issues.

His nomination, too, was a voluntary one, unaught on his part, and freely given by the representatives of the great Democratic variy in Etate Convention assembled. He had declined to be a candidate for the nomination, but he was not at liberty to refuse it when given to him with such singular unanimity, and under circumstances so oreditable to him as a man and as a Democrat. But it is not the mere exhibition of these ears of corn which is to accomplish any good. It is their interchange among other exhibitors.
