 The New York Tribuna gives a lengthy article on a private exhibition to the billiard players of New York, which was given on Saturday evening, by M. Berger, the colebrated French player, who is now in that city as the guest of Mr. Phelan. We extract several paragraphs: extract several paragraphs :

extract several paragraphs: "Mr. Phelani plays from the mind. M. Berger plays from the heart. That is the game of judg-ment, this of Imagination. The prose of billiards, and the poetry. As Berger himself defines it, the solenific and the romantic. Berger is the alluring example for the young and enthusiastic smaleer in the most graceful of domestic games. His ap-pearance in this country will certainly revive the latest romance of the billiard-room, and records will flook to his showy and bright standard, to be inspired with something of his own gallant and point entity.
