The revolution in Italy progresses. The ramors brought by the steamer Glasgow, and published yesterday, are confirmed by the arrival of the North American, whose advices, two days later, we pablish to-day. The successes of the Sardinian the ground that it was better to submit to these troops are all confirmed. The Liberals were fear-evils than to break up the regular organizaing a conflict between the Sardinians and the French troops in Rome. The College of Cardinals were recommending His Holiness the Pope to abandon Rome and seek an asylum in either Spain or Austria. It is thought that, if the Pope leaves Rome, the Sardinians will occupy the Sacred City. Aucona was thought to be virtually in the hands of army of prisoners. The defeat of Lamorielere re-flects no discredit upon him as a general, considering that he was overpowered by superior numbers. It is thought that the result of the recent battle is te transfer to the King of Sardinia the whole Ro-man' territory, except Rome, Viterbo, and Civita

The Hon. H. V. Johnson is following Senato Douglas in his magnificent canvass. He lately spoke at Cincinnati, addressing a large crowd in favor him the question propounded to Mr. Donglas at Norfolk. He gave a response similar to that of the Senator, saying he would not regard the mere fact of Lincoln's election a cause for disunion. The inquest in the case of Robert Crawford, whose murder is the theme of local excitement. Was aued yesterday. A number of new facts were

Advices from Utah have been received to September 8. The weather had been favorable for harvesting, and the bountiful crops have been safely secured. Wheat and gats could be bought, in some instances, for one dollar, though the no minal price in trade was higher. A considerable amount of grain was being transported, on specu throughout the Territory were making preparations for holding their annual fairs, at which prizes were to be given for superiority in the vaus branches. The fairs were to be generally follows? by horse races, and ploughing and shooting matches. Judge Flanken was going to Caron Valley, to make an attempt to supersede Judge radiebaugh, who was growing more and more ob noxious to the Mormons. It was a question, how ever, whether Cradlebaugh would quietly consent to be superseded; in which case, another pretty on in Utah affairs would arise.

The idea is worthy of consideration. It is a by no means uncommon occurrence for men who have during the active portions of their lives been pre-eminently vigorous and useful, to pine away when they reach "the sere and yellow leaf" period of existence, for want of proper attention. Even when they have sufficient means to pay for all the comforts they demand, it is not at all certain they can procure them, without great inconvenience, unless they have the kindly aid of devoted friends and relatives. It certainly requires no great stretch of the imagination to suppose that an asylum for old men, which would be nearly if not quite self-sustaining, the friends of Judge Douglas? might be so managed that those who are not blessed with the superior advantages derived

HARRISBURG, Oct. 2—Midnight.—A large crowd was collected on the arrival of the Prince tonight, but there was no ceremony at the depot. The Prince and his suite were driven rapidly to Jones' Hotel, where an elegant sulteof rooms were prepared for their reception.

The Prince was received at the hotel by Mayor Kepner, General Cameron, and other dignitaries. The hotel was brilliantly illuminated in honor of the occasion. A band of music was in full blast, and numerous flags were caught up and tossed about by the midnight air. In fact, better arrangements were never made for the ontertainment of prince or potentate, especially when they arrived at so late an hour.

The Prince has a private reception room, dining room, parlor, and sleeping room. So, also, has the Duke of Newassite, and the other attaches. The arrangements are perfect, and reflect great credit con Col. Covorly, who surpassed himselt in getting up the "royal supper."

Frank P. Blair at National Hall. PERCH UPON THE PRESIDENTIAL ISSUE PROH National Hall was about half filled last evening. The sixth of the series of Republican addresses was delivered by Francis P. Blair, of Missouri. That gentieman came upon the platform at a quarter past eight o'clock, and after the election of the officers and a speech from Mr. W. B. Thomas, the president, proceeded to urge the claims of "Protection and Freedom."

The president of the D. D. Tompkins Engine Company, No. 8, of Albany, N. Y. The visiting company strived shortly after eight o'clock at the Kensington Depot.

Previous to their arrival, the essort had formed in line on Hanover afteet, each company having this apparatus. comprising steam fire engines. Inomas, the president, proceeded to urge the claims of "Protection and Freedom."

Mr. Thomas said: Their opponents were pleased to charge the Republican party with being a seational organization, inasmuch as they had said whey had no organization in the Southern or elave-holding States. He had the horor to introduce to them not only a Rambhilam from a dam-back. then not only a Republican from a slaveholding State. but one who was backed up by a party which was sufficiently numerous to send him, as their Representative, to the Cengress of the United States. They would expect, of course, to find the slaveholding Demooracy in power there. Not so, however, in the St. Louis Congressional district. These facts, when presented to them, would enable them to comprehend the energy, determination, and heroism of the Hon. Francis P. Blair, Jr., of Missouri.

Mr. Blair then stepped forward, and was most enthusiastically applauded. Mr. Blair opened with the following beautiful Mr. Blair opened with the following beautiful sonteness:

SION-RECEPTION OF THE D. D. TOMPERS Ex-GINE COMPANY, No. 8, OF ALBANY, N. Y -Last evening, there was a grand toroh-light procession of forty of the fire companies of our city, in honor of the arrival of the D. D. Tompkins Engine Previous to their strival, the ascort hall formed in line on Hanover street, each company having out its apparatus, comprising steam fire engines, hand engines, and hose carriages, the most of which were handsomely illuminated with pertable gas lights, and rows of lanterns, and several were decorated with wreaths and bouquets. The scene, as the visiting company passed down the line, wes really magnificent. For nearly a mile, there was a continued display of fireworks of the smaller kind, Bengola lights, Roman candles, and rocket; being discharged in profusion. The members of the different companies were all equipped, the steam-engines had steam up, and with bands playing, bonfires blaving, and long continued cheering, the sight was truly an imposing one.

The strangers numbered about 40 men, equipped with black ribbed New York fire hats, and heavy drab fire coats. They brought with them a side-lever suction engine, which was taken in charge at the depot by a deputation of two members from each company on parade, and drawn by them over the route. The vicitors were accompanied by the Albany Brigade Band, comprising about 20 pieces which discoursed some excellent music.

Mayor Thatcher, whe was expected to accompany them, did notcome, but they are accompanied by Ohiof Engineer McQuaid, Assistant Johnson, and ene or two other gentlemen of the Albany press, who rode in an open barouche.
