ation consists in his stating, as his "relig belief," that fully four fifths of the nearly 90,006 D.morats of Missouri " are warmly in favor of Breckinridge and Lane." Not a same man in the State believes this, I care not to what party, or 'action of a party, he may belong. The "Boltors" hemselves do not assert or believe it. And I have yet to meet an intelligent man outside their ranks who believes that there are 30,000 Breckinridge voters in the State of Missouri. I doubt exceed-ingly whether there are 20,000.

I do not approve of betting upon elections, and rarely make such bets, and never for any large amount. But, notwithstanding my objections, I make this proposition upon the anthority of a gen-tienan of this place, who has the means with which to bet, and no scruples of conscience in such mat-ters, ("specially when he wins, as he usually does,) in order to test the sincerity of "And. MoMackin." or any one who may think as he professes to think. The proposition is to bet $1000 that Breckinridge does not get "four-fiftee" of the Democratic vote of Missouri. $1,000 that Douglas will roceive more votes in the Siste than Breckinridge. I do not approve of betting upon elections, and the State than Breckinridge. $1 000 that Douglas will carry the State of Missouri against all his competitors, and $1,000 that "fall three-fourths of the Democracy

$1,000 that "fall three-fourths of the Democracy of Missouri will cast their votes for Douglas in No-vember," as I stated. Warenever "Audrew MoMakin," who professes to be "an old line Whig, with a clear record," (and is therefore impertinent in venturing to "speak out in meetin," not of his associates.) or, any Brockintidge Democrat, (who is but a faction butter from the party.) chooses to take the forego-ing bet, the money will be placed, at once, in any back in this state, so that it may be drawn by the winner. Will he, or any other, take it? I think winner. Will he, or any other, take it ? I think back in this state, so that it may be drawn by the winner. Will he, or any other, take it? I think not. Since I wrote yon, our State election has been held, and yoar readers made aware of the result. It has turned out more favorably for the Demo-oratio party than I predicted, or anticipated. We did wooders, electing our whole State ticket by a handsome mejority, notwithstanding we had ap-persenty good ground for believing that our candi-date for Governor would be defeated, by a union of the Republican and Opposition parties upon the candidate of the latter, and the defection of the renegide Bolters from our nominee. We best them nevertheless. The vote for Governor may form a pretty good index to that for President. It was, in round numbers, Democratic, 75,000; Op-presition, 60,000; Bolters, 12,000; and Republican, 6,500. The Republicans may poll 25,000 votes for President—they claim much more. This will re-due the Opposition, cillowing the aggregate votes to be the same as in August;) to 47,500. Should the Bolters sceure 20,000 votes, in addition to the 12,000, in August, this would give them 32,000-a most improbable number-and reduce that of the Damosracy to 55,000. This will approximate, I have no doubt, to the state true of parties here. As well-informed men as we havin in Missouri assure me we shall do better than this, the "proposte-rous and ridiculous statement" of Andrew MeMa-kin to the contrary notwithstanding. J. M. kin to the contrary notwithstanding. J. M.
