WILLIAM F. PACKER,

APROCLAMATION.

FELLOW-CITIZENE: The revolutions of the year have again brought us to our annual festival of Thenksziving to Almighty God. In no preceding great have see had more abundant cause for gratitudes and praise. The revolving seasons have brought with them health and plenty. The summer fraits and the autumn harvests have been gathered and garnered with unwonted exuberance. A healthful sotivity has perraded all the departments of life; and provident industry has met with a generous reward. The increase of material wealth has been liberally employed in sustaining our educational and roligious institutions, and both are making the most graitlying progress in entightening and purifying the public mind. While, in Europe, central and absolute governments, by itheir pressure on personal rights and liberty, are producing excitements which threaten to upheave the protection of just and squal laws, are peacefully pursuing the evocations of society, and have led in the protection of just and squal laws, are peacefully pursuing the evocations of life, and engaging it whatever promises to advance our social and individual improvement and happiness. The likes are, indeed, "falleh to us in placesar places," and whave a goodly heritage." I pail this we see the orderings of a kind and merofird Favridence, which call not only for our recognition, but for our public Thanksgiving and Prayer, and recommend to all our people, that setting aside, on that day, all workship and unite in offering thanks to God for His manifold goodness, and imporing His forgiveness, and the continuance of His mercles.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this twenty-fourth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight houdred and skry, and of the Commonwealth.

General Cial-dial was ordered to enter Naples with the Sardinian forces, and it was thought that Italian affairs were coming to a crisis. Garibaldi was about to inaugurate universal suffrage in the Two Sicilies. The question of annexation was debated in the ian Chambers. Austria, evidently anticipating trouble in Venetia, was about making art rangements for the defence of the ports of the empire. In Rome the French army is to be increase to sixty thousand men, while the forces at Lyons were about to be placed on a war footing. In Syris the Moslem troubles had again broken out; Inad Pachs had returned to Constantinople, and a number of Christians were being massacred The Moslems were especially furious against the Christians, and had threatened the life of the Rus-
