State, as follows:

"When that proceeding was first anneunced in those tersely obsoure terms for which the telegraph is remarkable, benevolent people were inclined to explain it on the theory of some latent fountain of desire for the defeat of Lincoln, hitherto concealed in the bosom of the Douglas party. The facts of the case annihilate this charitable hypothesis. The grounds upon which their action is based—the motives avowed by the Douglas leaders—the character of the men who were conspicuous in the movement—the falsity of their statements, and the insolence of their pretensions, are quite enough to refute any accusations of virtue and patriotism that might be brought sgainst them. When it is known that John W. Forney was the instigate of this proceeding—that it was proposed in the committee by his friends, and carried through by his followers—no one can doubt that it is replete with meditated treachery and threatened danger. It may seem strange that the Douglastice should have taken this, method of consummating their treason against the Democratic party, and of accomplishing their project for the election of Lincoln." State, as follows:

The Administration papers in this State greet the withdrawal of the Douglas electoral licket as a concession to harmony—and certainly those who participated in that movement are known to be decidedly opposed to the election of Mr. Lincoun. It shows how wilfully they are misunderstood by the Disunionists, and how fatally any Democrat offends the Seceders who dares to avow himself in favor of Stephen A. Douglas.

So tortuous and eig-zag are many of the complications in which Southern disunforplotters have involved the Democratic party, that it requires both the spear of Ithuriel and the thread of Dandalus to lead one out of their mazy labyrinths. The solution is easy. The party claiming it is all right in politics, and claims that Mr. Griffiths, the constructor, made the vessel a little deeper and a little wider than the original specification hence they are entitled to their money. If this were true, it has nothing to do with the power of the machinery, as that should be to contract, while it is 68 percent. less. With other contract. ors Mr. Toucey has been very exact, requiring them to fulfil to the letter, but in this case he shows weakness in the knees. An insane man made an attempt to shoot the player of the immortal Marizel, which were always directed by a superior will. So thoroughly has this ever been understood, that there never has existed a period in the history of Pennsylvania politics, when the electors appointed by Democratic State Conventions have not been obliged to give written pleages, in advance, to the effect, that, if elected, they would, in the Electoral College, deposit their votes for the nominees of the

The man who attempted to ascape was subsequently arrested and locked up. This adds another to the many cases of impredently using frearms in a crowded city. If an officer could not recover his prisoner without resorting to this, it would have been much better to have let him go than to run the risk of killing people by fitting in discriminately in the direction of the retreating prisoner without taking deliberate aim. CURIOUS 'MARGE OF LARGENY.—A drover named Stapeman, who resides in Delaware, came to this city yesterday to collect the money for a promissory note for $1,000, given him by two butchers, in payment for cattle begat from him. The drawers of the note, and the holder of it, met at the William Penn tavern, in West Philadelphia, and the butchers, who had been drinking freely, got possession of the note, and refined to either pay it or restore it to Mr. Stapeman. The latter procured a warrant for their arrest, and they were held to answer.
