It is, indeed, a tragedy—with some striking characters—written in (remarkably) blank verse, but having the leading part fairly developed, and the action well wrought up to produce a striking finale. Trustees of the City Gas Works had declined to reduce the price of gas, as it would be contrary to the settled practice of the gas department. The committee received an offer to introduce Holzer's Patent Gas Regulator, to be affixed to the pipes leading to the different departments of the house, at a cost of $600, which is warranted to effect a saving of 25 per cent. They also received propositions to creat works on the Aimshouse property, at a cost of $8,000, to manufacture gas by the water-gas process. The contractors guaranty to produce gas at a cost not exceeding one dollar per 1,000 feet. The committee, in conclusion, say, that however favorably they may view the latter proposition, they were not sufficiently satisfied in their own minds, to recommend, at the present time, an outlay of this magnitude, but intend to produce more data than they at present possess. They reported a resolution that the committee be authorized to make the experiment with Holzer's regulator, and have further time granted in regard to the ersection of works for water gas or other process.

The resolution was adopted.
