rebellion against the Gevernment Then, what is the condition of the seconding State. What are her resources? Where go her great staples? What is struction, a Union acknowledging as second on and which would be the first to protect for from foreign invasion or servile insurrection with her blood and treasure. Would that the sons and daughters of South Carolins could know how un-justly they judge their political brethren of the other States! The heart saddens in the destroy slightest Executive energy. It is the re-mark of Monterquieu, in reference to a repub-lie, that "Sometimes, with its, thousand fest, it receps like a snail: and sometimes, with its, thousand fest, it thread arms there are the sometimes with its thousand fest, it the source of the thousand arms, hears down all before it." So she will, retrace her steps. She must turn from her present rulers under a sense of self-preserva-tion, and return to that Federal Union which has never yet exercised authority to the injury of a single State. When she returns-when rebellion league boots" it the stided over the bound, Certainly its inherent vitality has not given it currency. Principles, however bad, will run riot in a land when fiercely and ably premed by rebel in a land when fiercely and ably premed by rebel is a baides-we can then proceed to concessions-we can then concede anything for the Unions.
