foe. About an hour after the booming began, two balls rushed hissing through the air, and glanced harmless from the stucced bricks of Fort Moultrie. The embrasures of the hostile fortress gave forth no sound again till between six and seven o'clock, when, as it wrathful from enforced delay, from casemate and parapet the United States officer poured a storm of iron hall upon Fort Moultrie, Stevens' iron battery, and the floating battery. The broadside was returned with spirit by the gallant gunners at these important posts.

The firing now began in good earnest. The surling white smoke hung above the angry pieces of friend and foe and the jarring boom rolled at regular intervals on the anxious ear. The atmosphere was charged with the smell of villainous saltpetre, and, as if in sympathy with the melancholy scene, the sky was covered with heavy clouds, and everything wore a sombre aspect.

A boat bearing despatches to General Beauregard from Morris Island reached the city about nine o'clock, and reported that all the batteries were working admirably; that no one was injured, and that the men were wild with enthusiasm.

A short time after that happy news was received, the schooner Petril, from Hog Island channel, reported that the shot from Stevens' iron battery had told upon the walls of Fort Sumpter, and also that Fort Moultrie had sustained no damage.

About half-past nine o'clock, Capt. R. S. Parker reported from Sullivan's Island to Mount Pleasant that everything was in fine condition at Fort Moultrie, and that the soldiers had essented in hurt.

The same despatch stated that the embrasures of the floating battery were undamaged by the shock of the shot, and though that formidable structure had been struck eleven times, the balls had not started a single bolt. Anderson had concentrated his fire upon the floating battery, and the Dahlgren battery, under command of Lieut. Hamilton. A number of shells had dropped into Fort Sumpter, and one gun embarbette had been dismounted.

The following cheering tidings were brought to the city by Col. Edmund Yates, acting lieutenant to Dozler, of the Confederate States navy, from Fort Johnson: "Stevens' battery and the floating battery are doing important service. Stevens' battery has made considerable pregress in breaching the south and southwest walls of Fort Sumpter. The northwest wall is saffering from the well-aimed fire of the floating battery, whose shot have dismounted several of the guns on the parapet, and made it impossible to use the remaining ones. The howitzer battery at Cumming's Point is managed with consummate skill and terrible effect."

Eleven o'clock.—A messenger from Morris' Island brings the glorious news that the shot The same despatch stated that the embrasures of the floating battery were undamaged by the shock

TWO CENTS. The Crisis.

[For The Press.]

Con John W. Forney: The Press has been a welcome visitor to my house every morning since its organization. I have been brought up a Quaher, and my father compelled me to call every-thing by its proper name. In reading The Press, and other journals of the day, I find the rebellious able secession could be soknowledged by the Go-fatid, news of the political troubles at home, and consignt "Confederate" would be correct, but as await with nervous anxiety further intelligence. we will how he obliged to deal with them as thieves and traitors," why flot call them by their

The Administration, however, have prudently put it beyond the power of the Executive to continue troops in the field beyond the first of August. In calling Congress together, the Government will have deferred to the Senators of the States and the Representatives of the people the responsibility of the measures and the policy which, after the date of their assemblage, may be held requisite to preserve the public peace.

Proclamation by Mayor Wood.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, New York, April 15, 1861.

TO THE PROPLE OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

As Chief Magistrate, representing the whole people, I feel compelled at this crisis to call upon them to avoid excitements and turbulence. Whatever may be or may have been individual positions or opinions on questions of public policy, let us remember that our country now trembles upon the brink of a precipiece, and that it requires a patriotic and honest effort to prevent its final destruction. Let us ignore the past, rising superior to partisan considerations, and rally to the restoration of the Constitution and the Union as they existed in the days and in the spirit of our fathers. Whether this is to be accomplished by fratrioidal warfare or by concession, conciliation, and saori-Proclamation by Mayor Wood. Whether this is to be accomplished by fratrioidal warfare or by concession, conciliation, and saortice, men may differ, but all will admit that here at least harmony and peace should prevail. Thus may we, under the guidance of Divine Providence, ast an example of peace and good will throughout our extended country. It has expirit, and with this view, I call upon the people of New York, irrespective of all other considerations or prejudices, to unite in obedience to the laws, in support of the public peace, in the preservation of order, and in the protection of property.

FERNANDO WOOD, Mayor.

CAPE Town, February 15, 1881. CAPE OF GOOD HOPE. Enclosed I hand you Government notice of lighthouse recently erected at the entrance of the Buffalo river, East London, southeast coast of Southern Africa, which may be of some interest to our (United States) commercial community. I re-States called the "Confederate States." If peace coived by steamer Fire Dart, and mail via Engpraying to God that the Union may be preserved. for, by the dissolution of the United States, I, whose proper name? If you think this too hatsh, in forefathers were among the first settlers of Ame-

a spirit of patriotism and devotion to the Union, in this State, which, long latent, was not supposed to exist at all. To profit by this patriotic emotion, it must have intelligent dispatriotic emotion, it must have intelligent dispatriotic emotion. W. Hampten Gibbes has the honor of having fired, and particularly the paramed its noiseless way towards the hostile fortification. The honored missive described its beautiful curve through the balmy air, and falling within the hostile fortress, scattered its deadly contents in all directions. Fort Moultrie then took up the tale of death, and in a moment the guns from the redoubtable gun battery of the fourth section, and is as follows:

"And no officer, non commissioned officer, or private thall be compelled to serve more than three mounts after his ection, and be applied vigorensly to the defence of the State and Union.

I venture to offer a few suggestions. This took up the tale of death, and in a moment the guns from the redoubtable gun battery, of the Enfilled battery, and other fortifications spit forth their wrath at the grim fortress rising so defaulty out of the sea.

Major Andersen received the shot and shell in silence. And some excited lookers-on, ignorant of the search of the fose, were finent with conject the short-lived hope was utterly extinguished when the espening twilight revealed the stars and stripes floating proudly in the brease. The batteries continued, at regular intervals, to belch iron the short-lived hope was utterly extinguished when the espening twillight revealed the stars and stripes floating proudly in the brease. The batteries continued, at regular intervals, to belch iron the store and predictions and still no answer was returned by the six and shell in silence. About an hour after the booming began, two balls rushed hissing through the sir, and glanced the money necessary to the stars and shell in maintain their several quots in active operations, and wholly inadequate to protect the stripes floating proudly in the brease. The batteries out nucle at regular intervals, to belch iron the stripes floating proudly in the brease. The service two companies of artillery of 100 men each, to occupy Fort Mifflin, and the General Government should detail sufficient artillery officers to instruct them in the use of heavy guns and the defence of fortified places. Let Colonel Delafield, United States en gineer, who had charge of the river de-fences of Philadelphia some years since, and
