Irotand's Decline.

The Census returns for Ireland, giving the results of inquiries simultaneously made on the 7th of last April, have just been published, and very curious they are. The enumerators were 173 policemen of Dublin, and 5,096 of the constabulary force all over the island.

There appears to have been none of the mis-counting and omissions, and careless enumeration, which destroyed the accuracy of the American Census of 1860-by which, for example, the great city of Philadelphia got cre-

The gross result of the Census, so far as reland is concerned, may be stated in one line. The total population of Ireland, on the 7th of April, was 5,764,543, less by 787,842 than it was in 1851, which is a decrease of 12.02 per cent. on the last decennial period.

There had been a decrease of 19.85 per cent.

upon the return of 1841. The highest diminution was 18 per cent. in Munster, and the lowest was 5 per cent. in Ulster. The only assigned cause of this decline of Irish popudit for about 120,000 fewer inhabitants than it actually has.

I do not mean, of course, that he is the equal of these disinguished men in all respects; he is not; but he is entitled to be classed among them, and as a true pulpit orator will bear favorable comparison with either of them. His discourse on Sunday morning was founded upon these words: "Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man.glory in his might; let not the rich man glory in his riches: but let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that, I am the Lord which exercise loving kindness, udgment, and righteousness in the earth." This is an extract from the prophecies, albeit it is not predictive, and is contained in the ninth chapter of Jeromiah. In the discussion of this theme the instability and unsatisfying character of wealth, power, and mere mental acquirements were successively referred to and portrayed with force and elogence. The last of these three points, under the head of "Wisdom," was especially favorable to the speaker's peculiar genius. This part of his discourse was an Irishman. THE CHURCH RATES QUESTION -- The Bishop of London, in presenting some church-rates petitions, expressed himself strongly as in favor of some compromise to settle the vexed question; and he declared this to be the general opinion and desire of the Bishops. Mr. Cross hes introduced such a measure in o the House of Commons; but for lack of Government aid, the second reading of it is postponed to the 24th of July.--Church Journal.

The Late Battle in the Pulpit. There are few churches in this city in which the battle of July 21st was not referred to on Sun day last by their respective passons. Some few there were who ignored it; others alluded to it merely incidentally; but in many instances it was the leading theme of discourse. In almost every case, the fact of volunteering an engage-ment on the Lord's Day was 'deplored, and, in some instances, condemned as utterly at variance of dovernment aid, the second reading of it is some instances, condemned as utterly at variance of theology Both belonged to Capt. Nadenbush's of course of the fact of volunteering an engage-it to young course, the fact of volunteering an engage-with the professed Christian impulses and motives of course of our cause, and, under God, our ultimate triumph.
