Will have his SECOND OPENING of

CITY ITEMS.

One Hundred Years Ago. Nothing could better illustrate the progress made in the mechanic arts within the past century than a comparison of certain modern household utensils with the style of those articles a hundred years ago. Passing the stove warerooms of Mr. James Spear, No. 1116 Market street, yesterday, we saw a large lot of old iron unloading from the wagon of a Delaware-county farmer, which we had the curiosity to examine. Among the various pieces we observed a curiosity, which, as a relic of the olden time, is well worth a visit of inspection. In appearance it resembled the front section of a cannon, with a massive stove-pipe inserted in its side, the weight offit being very heavy. On it is cast the following inscription, in the style of the lettering on the old State House bell: "H. W. Stiegel—1763." This quaint old piece of iron, upon inquiry, we found to have once formed the upper portion of a slove, for many years employed in a irch in Delaware county, the farmer referred to having brought it, and other old scraps of metal, together with what change he could command, to Philadelphia, for the purpose of purchasing therewith one of Mr. Spear's celebrated new Anti-Dust Cooking Stoves, the one, by the way, which we some few weeks ago took occasion to recommend to the public as " The Latest and Greatest"

Improvement of the age.

The fame already attained by these wonderful stoves is imprecedented. The stattering comments which we then made upon their merits have not only been justified by experiment, but even greater excellence is accorded to em by those who have them in use. A letter from a lady. (and the testimony of the ladies in a matter of this kind is always of most value,) shown to us by Mr. Spear. has the following encomiums respecting the store in question. The letter is dated "Chester Valley, Sept. 20th," and is from a member of one of the most respectable and best-known families in Chester county: "I assure you it [the Cooking Stove with Mr. Spear's great * Anti-Dust * improvement, purchased at his store about a month before,] is the most completely-arrange stove I have ever seen. I regard its use as one of the comforts of housekeeping. You know I hesitated about taking the Anti-Dust Stove on account of the situation of the oven, it being beneath the fire. But taking your word that it would bake well, I took it on your recom mendation, and I have had no occasion to regret it; on the contrary. I would not be deprived of its use for twice

This is one of many similar letters which Mr. Spear is daily receiving from all parts of the country, whilst here in the city his great Anti-Dust Cooking Stove is rapidly taking the place of all others in use. Another person—a lady residing some fifteen miles away from the city-writes to Mr. Spear as follows, in ordering one of

"I make my stove hot, then heat the oven in firm nutes, and bake three ovens full without touching the fire. I assure you, you are perfectly safe in giving a warranty on such a stove as this. As you have deale so honorably with me, I thought a line due you, although Lo me a stranger."

In our former notice of this admirable Anti-Dust Cooking Stove, we had only space to speak of its general merits. without particularizing. We may here state that one of its peculiarities is, it sifts its own ashes. By its use not the smallest particle of coal can go to waste. The coal which is withdrawn with the ashes, in the ordinary stove, is in this most ingeniously retained nd the separation of the ashes from the coal, and placing both in two separate pans, or drawers, is so nicely affected that it admits of no escape of dust, and entirely dispenses with the use of a shovel. The drawers ataining the ashes and the sifted coal can either of them be removed independent of each other. We have in this stove, not only the most convenient rooking arrangen out in use, and a great economizer of fuel, but, moreover, a stove which performs better in wented in Europe or America. Persons wishing to buy, matter where they may reside, will make a great miszake in not first examining Mr. Spear's stoves SERMON BY REV. DR. JUNKIN .- By reference to another column it will be seen that the Rev. George Junkin, D. D., late President of Washington College, Virginia, will preach a sermon at 10% o'clock, to-mor row, in the Sixth Presbyterian Church, Spruce street, below Sixth, on "Civil Government an Ordinance of God, with reference to the present Rebellion." Dr. Junkin is a ripe scholar, and a patriot, having left house, lands, and position, to attest his loyalty in the present Crisis. We doubt not that his discourse will be a power-baking, roasting, stewing, boiling, frying, and cooking

generally, than any other stove that has yet been in-

ful appeal, and it ought to attract a very large congre-LADIES' FURS AND LADIES' CLOAKS.—Our lady readers will be pleased to learn that the Fall and Winter stock of Furs and Cloaks, at the splendid warerooms of Messrs. J. W. Proctor & Co .- the leading house in this department in Philadelphia, popularly known as 4. THE PARIS MANTILLA. CLOAK, AND FUR EMPORIUM," No. 708 Chestmut street-is not only as large and complete, but even more extensive and recherche than at any | For sale by column of our paper to-day, inform us that all their goods are offered at Portlan Prices-which we under stand to mean very low prices, as the phrase goes—to suit the times. We are the better warranted in this who seem to be lavish, not only in praising the evenisite ments upon the extraordinary cheapness of the goods they are now selling. Yesterday, their store presented a continuous throng of beauty and fashion, spending money to the best advantage for these seasonable articles, and we take pleasure in expressing our opinion that, for anything in the way of Cloaks and Furs, Procton's is a point which ladies, it they consult their interests, canmot overlook, in making their purchases. Thy of attention now. from the fact that, for certain rea-nons, their Furs are selling at a much lower figure than they probably will cell at a few weeks hence. For exsimple: They are now offering sets of fine Mink Sable Furs at forty dollars, that have been worth, any previons year within our recollection, sixty dollars; and the me ratio prevails throughout their stock in general. In Cloaks, their assortment ranges in prices from eight dollars to one hundred and fifty dollars; their lower and medium grades being got up quite as stylish a the higher-cost articles, the difference being mainly in the quality of materials. We commend this stock to the immediate attention of the ladies.

SILKS AND FANCY DRY GOODS, and domestic Tabrics of every grade and description, we need scarcely say, can be bought in greatest variety and at the mos Eyre & Landell, corner of Fourth and Arch streets, whose advertisement appears in another column. It is a fact that, throughout the general depression which has prevailed in business circles for some time past, this house has exhibited as much activity as ever, and we would be hardly over-tating it in saying that their pa tronage is greater to-day, both from the city and all parts of the country, than at any former period. The reasons are, they have not only had the sagacity, but also the requisite facilities to take advantage of circumstances Being in the best American markets constantly, to secure bargains for cast as they are going, and being perfectly familiar with the wants of the community, their stock is at all times fresh and seasonable, and their prices as low as the lowest. They are now in the height of their busy

J. H. MICHENER & Co.'s "Excelsion" HAMS.—These superior Hams have obtained a reputa-Ziarly their own, by Messrs, J. H. Michener & Co., Nos. 142 and 144 North Front street, and sold by all the principal grocers in this city and throughout the Union. The universal praise which they receive from those who try them is well deserved. For our own part, we confess never to have known the luxury of a delicious ham until

DEATHS BY THE EXPLOSION OF FLUID LAMPS ere of so common occurrence, that we are surprised that especially as the WITTERS' Lamp for burning Kerosene oil is less expensive, more pleasant to use, quite as courenient, and perfectly safe. We have already recom mended these lamps to the public, and would merely now add that we consider them an indispensable nortable light for every household. Mesers. Witters & Co., No. 35 North Eighth street, corner of Filbert, have them it immense variety to suit purchasers. THE MANUFACTURE OF CONFECTIONERY has been elevated in this country to a thing of great commercial importance, mainly through the commendable efforts of Messrs, L. G. Whitman & Co., Second street, below Chestnut. They still maintain the lead in this department, and are likely to do so. They use only the finest and purest materials, are constantly bringing out something new to please the popular palate, and manufacturing on the largest scale they are enabled to sell a as low prices as others in the trade who deal in inferior goods.

THE ARMY VOCE .- Although there has not vet been any official return made of the result of the army vote in the recent election, enough is known to nake it certain that the Pennsylvanians in the field were at least unanimous upon two points. First, hatred of ession and devotion to the Union, and, secondly, unqualified approbation of the uniforms made at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 503 and 605 Chestuit street, above Sixth. The garments zurned out at the Military Clothing branch of this far famed establishment are unexceptionable in respect to elegance, comfort, and serviceableness. THE BATTLE OF BALL'S BLUFF .- Although there continues to be an absence of details concerning the battle of Ball's Bluff, yet we are assured that our loss Is not so heavy as many suppose. Large numbers of those reported missing have since made their way into tamp, and matters lank brighter each hour. We should wait patiently for a true report of the affair, and in the meantime proceed to the mammoth clothing emporium of Granville Stokes, 600 Chestnut street, and purchase one of those cheap and well made fall and winter suits.
