FECTIONERY .- Most of our readers minded that the inviting character of all pared and the style in which they are ale. This is admirably illustrated at the ectionery house of Messrs, E. G. Their stock of new fall preparactive beyond anything that has ever is city, and the reader should bear in es they sell at are no higher than those ers whose goods have no comparison with f quality. Merchants, as well as purald bear this in mind. There are est families in this city who would not York, with fections than those manufactured by they are sensible for it.

KENNEDY'S FLOWER AND FEATHER EMPOиим.—There are few establishments in this city that offer reattractions for ladies of taste to visit than the Flowe Chestnut street. Although they keep the choicest line of Millinery articles generally, they have made Flowers and Feathers so marked a speciality that no one thinks of buying a fine article in that line without first examining their stock. The unusually low prices at which they are now selling are the subject of general remark among their customers. They have now on hand a beautiful invoice of Pelt Hats, for children, which we commend to the at-

Charles Oakford & Sons', under the Centinental Hotel, in better style, greater variety, and at more moderate prices than at any other house or houses n this city. This is a sweeping declaration, but we have not made it without assuring ourselves of its correctness by personal examination. Their beautiful warerooms, thronged as they no ware daily, present the appearance of a splendid fashionable bazaar.

FINE GROCERIES .- In every large city there is found some leading first-class store in the various departments of trade. The representative of that class in this city, in the grocery business, we take the liberty to remark, is the store of Mr. C. H. Mattson, corner of Arch and Tenth streets. In saying this we are reminded that he has now on hand a fresh supply of dried and pressed ginger, raisins and citron, all of the fine stquality, to suit first-class trade. THE ADVANTAGES OF BURNING KEROSENE

Oir are at this time two-fold: first, it is cheaper by a very large percentage than any other article for lighting purposes, and in point of safety and convenience it is unrivalled. The best Lamps in which to burn Kerosene are those made and sold by Messrs. Withers & Co., at their Wholesale and Retail Emporium, No. 35 North Eighth street, corner of Filbert.

THE CASE OF GENERAL FREMONT .- There s now no doubt that General Fremont has been superse ded by General Hunter, and that the "Pathfinder" i now on his way East. It is understood that he will not ceed to Washington, where a Court of Inquiry is to be held in his case, and that he will stop while on his road thither, and procure for himself a new and elegant uni form at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth.
