Departure of Gen. Scott for Europe. The Herald of vesterday says: The late Com-nander-in-Chief of our United States forces took leave of our shores on board of the steamship Ara-ga, for Europe, at one o'clock on Saturday. His departure was not churacterized by any demonstra-tions of a public character, by special request of he General himself The General left the Brevoort House in a private

The General left the Brevoort House in a private carriage at about nine o'clock on Saturday morning. Before leaving he bade farewell to his aids, Colonels Cullum. Townsend, Wright, and Hamilton, in one of the froms of the hotel, requesting them not to accompany him to the steamer. He even refused to pass out through the main hall of the hotel, where a considerable crowd of his immediate friends had congregated to give him a partdinte friends had congregated to give him a part-ing cheer, and went out through the private door in Eighth street. Accompanying him in the car-riage were Colonel Scott, his son-in-law, wife and son, together with Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt. The car to pier 37 North river, where the steamship Arago was lying.

None knew as that carriage passed through our thoroughfares that it contained the hero of so many hard-fought battles, as well as the unwavering, honest patriot and statesman. No pageant or escort surrounded him as he hurried through the streets of the American metropolis, which had often rung out with the acclamations of a populace who were burning to do him honor. It was probably the good taste of General Scott that prevented him from accepting any public honors on his departure from the United States; for, with the country struggling in the vortex of a bloody rebellion, and the public mind clouded with the arduous cares of the unholy strife, he was not willing to obtrude himself (if it may be called obtrusion) upon the thoroughfares that it contained the hero of so many himself (if it may be called obtrusion) upon the public gaze at so inauspicious an hour.

On arriving at the pier General Scott alighted from the carriage and was supported to the gauge way of the steamer by Captain Butts, of the police, and some others. On going about he immediately and some others. On going aboard he immediately went below and lay down in his borth, perfectly exhausted from the exertions which he had been

CITY ITEMS.

Great Meeting in Behalf of the Soldiers at the Church of the Epiphany last Evening. Our readers are aware that a Series of Services in behalf of our brave soldiers have for several weeks past heen in progress in the various churches of this city, held under the auspices of the Young Man's Christian Association. The central object of this movement is, to supply the volunteers in camp with religious reading and to practical Christian sympathy in their arduous duties away from home. The eighth of these interesting meetings was held at the Church of the Epiphany, Chestnut and Fifteenth streets, last evening. The attendance was very large and the proceedings throughout were characterized with an intelligent carnestness that evinced unmistakubly that, although but a small fraction of our citizens are actively engaged in the war, the hearts of our people are religiously interested in the great and holy purpose for which it is being prosecuted. At the appointed hour, 7% o'clock, the rector, Rev. J. W. Gracraft, accompanied by Revs. J. M. Crowell, Dr. Alfred Nevin, Dr. Cooper, and George H. Stuart, Esq., entered the chancel, when the services of the evening were commenced by Binging, and the reading of Bishop Potter's beautiful war prayer by Rev. Mr. Cracraft. ADDRESS BY REV. MR. CRACKAFT.

The first speaker of the evening was the Rev. Mr. Cracraft. He commenced by saying that, for the first time in the history of this nation, we were involved in a civil war—the bitterest of public calamities. A causeless and atrocious rebellion was on foot for the avowed purpose embering the best Government the world had ever seen. But from the hearts of twenty millions of toyal freemen the voice came up, " This shall not be " They had determined that the rebellion should be crushed. We were inexorably shut up to the horrors of a civil war, if we would achieve an honorable and lasting peace. To pursue a different course—to purchase peace by concession-could but lead to anarchy, and nothing better. Peace could only come to us honorably when it brought with it liberty- iliberty throughout the land, to all the inhabitants thereof." To this end, five hundred thousand men much-needed spiritual knowledge that they had then and there met together. There were two practical questions for them to consider: first, did these men want such religious facilities? and, secondly, would they be given to them? This would depend somewhat upon the liberality of those present when the collection was taken. The speaker read a highly interesting extract from a letter published in the Protestant Churchman, which told eloquently how acceptably the Word of God, in the form of tracts and Testaments, was being received by hundreds of soldiers in the camps.

SPEECH OF REV. DR. BAIRD. The next speaker was the Rev. Dr. Beird, just returned from the camps in and about Washington. He was well aware, he said, how natural it was for men to guard against this studiously. He could, however, honestly say that the subject which had called them towork they were prosecuting, instances in proof of which faithful chaplains, who were witnessing the salutary there would soon be protracted meetings held in some of the camps. Havelock Associations were being organized in many of the regiments, pledging themselves, by the rules. These facts he regarded as an index of what Christian efforts in the camp could accomplish, if promptly and liberally made.

ADDRESS BY REV. J. M. CROWELL. Mr. Crowell said that the remarks of the previous speaker had suggested a few thoughts to his mind which he would briefly refer to. He was glad to see that one had developed a deeper Christianity in high places. The throwing their great influence on the side of God and the Bible, facilitating religious labors among the soldiers, and giving their counsel and example in favor of the sanctity of the Sabbath. In such a state as this—with the soldiers sending messages to their friends at home, asking for Bibles—it would be unciristian not to send them.

But there was another thought. The sacrifican county is such as a such a sacrificance. But there was another thought. The sacrifices out soldiers were now making for the salvation of the Reublic were without a parallel in history, for no men had ever given up so much to offer themselves a sacrifice for know but little about this. The reason we were allowed to remain in peace in Philadelphia was because of the mighty phalanx on the banks of the Potomac. If, then, those noble men were giving to us of their carnal things, was it too much for the churches here to give them of their spiritual things? There was a tremendous rebellion to be put down, and the spirit of the hour must be the life of General Havelock, in which the latter, on taking possession of a heathen temple in the Burmese war, had converted it into a Christian sanctuary; so he would fondly hope that the dark temple of treason would. ere long, be made to yield to the strong arm of loyalty,

SPEECH OF REV. DR. NEVIN. Dr. Nevin looked upon the present movement in It was being enacted among the greatest people, it was prosecuted in the grandest cause. He then described a observations of Gen. McClellan assured him that the latly controlled by the noblest Christian sentiments, and his trust was not in his own arm, but in the grace and power of God. The speaker's delineation of the wide difference between the comforts of home, and the privations of the soldier, with his hard fare, and damp, cheerless tent, was graphic and touching, and moved many of his hearers to wide-spread Christianity throughout our beloved coun-

ADDRESS BY MR. GEORGE H. STUART. Mr. Stuart had also just returned from the capital The best of all, said he, was, as Wesley once said, that God was with us in this contest. He had visited, within the last few days, the can pall and around Washington and he was literally overwhelmed with the field which was there providentially opened to the Church of Godnot in a foreign land, but in sight of our own capital There every hill-top and valley was white with the tents of an army standing, as had already been remarked, as a nighty phalanx between us and a powerful and malignant enemy. He felt assured that if those who hear him had witnessed what he had they would be aroused to the importance of the work in behalf of which this meeting had been called. It was a field of labor which reached far beyond Ball's Bluff, or Big Bethel, or Bul Run; it was the broad field of eternity itself. Mr. Stuar proceeded at length with an interesting parrative of his eservations in the camps, and concluded with an earnes The meeting was continued until nearly 10 o'clock, the dresses eliciting the deepest attention from first to last. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. THE MONEY MARKET.

PHILADELPHIA, November 9, 1861. The stock market was dull to-day. The fancy stocks were especially out of favor, excepting Reading Railroad shares, which opened at 18, but afterwards fell off X. The bonds of 1886 sold at 73, and those of 1870 at 81. City sixes, new gas issue, sold at 84, and the new issue at 92. Pennsylvania fives were firm at 76 4, and the warloan sixes at 95. The whole transactions of the day were of small amount. In the money market there is no alteration to report. Money is plenty and cheap, but credit is still dear. Only undoubted paper sells freely on the street, and this, on

The stockholders of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, it is said, are to be called upon for an additional ustalment of five per cent. The Cincinnati Gazette learns officially that the facts in regard to this matter are as follows:

The business of the company for the year has been largely embarrassed by the closing of the Mississippi and the military occupation of Cairo. The earnings, consequently, will be only sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest, leaving the company in debt on the 1st of January next about $250,000, which has been expended on construction. At that time, also, there will be due about $150,000 of interest, making $400,000 to be provided for. If the business of the remainder of the year should be better then is now anticipated, it will not be necessary to make a call, but if not, then the company will probably consider it their best paties to make a five-dollar call, payable early in the year, rather than go forward with $400,000 of floating debt.

The Boston Advertiser says:

The Boston Advertiser says: The week is closing under more favorable prospects for monetary and business affairs. The more rapid movement in merchandise is causing a greater degree of activity in the money market, which has been further quickened by the bank payment to the national loan. The supply, however, has in no degree been disturbed, but continues ample for all legitimate purposes, without change in price, which is 5 to 6 per cent. for first-class seemities.

The Western trade with this city is yearly increasing in importance, and is rapidly supplying what had been lost by the secession movement of the South. The grain movement to the East continues uninfluenced by the less favorable advices from Europe. A more cheerful feeling continues to pervade commercial circles, and should the naval expedition prove successful, a still more animal feula in every department would at once be experienced.
