James Miller, successor to C. S. Francis & Co., Captain Charles Wilkes, who is a New Yorker, New York, has just brought out, in 3 vols. of blue had an interview with General Wool, and expressed and gold, an enlarged edition of the late Mrs. Browning's Poems. It contains twenty-four poems not included in the previous edition. The work, which is neat and low-priced, is on sale by T. B. The 12mo. volume of Dickens' new Tales and Sketches (commencing with the Lamplighter's Story and Hunted Down) has just appeared, and A neat 16mo volume, entitled "Record of an Obscure Man," published by Ticknor and Fields, is a singular monograph upon the subject of Slavery, or rather of the Negro. Ingeniously hung upon the thread of a slight narrative, are a number of anecdotes, traits, and evidences illustrating the intellect and feeling of the African race. A gentleman named Colvil, son of a clorgyman, is the person supposed to bring forward all these illustrations, and his own character is sketched in a graphic manner. His death is mentioned, with the intimation that his writings were left at the disposal of the author of the "Record," and among them is named "The Tragedy of Errors," (scene in the South, time before 1830,) which Ticknor and The Lutheran Board of Education here have published a tiny volume, "The Schoolmaster and his Son : a narrative of events which occurred during the Thirty years' war : by Rev. K. Caspari." It is translated from the third German edition. Dr. Caspari, the author, is a Lutheran clergyman, now settled in Munich, Bavaria, who was formerly pastor of Sommerhausan, a village situated on the right hank of the Main, in Lower Franconia. Among the old church records there he found those belonging to the period of the Thirty Years' War, (1618-1648,) written by the schoolmaster, Udalricus Gast. From these and other documents Dr. Caspari collected materials out of which he composed "The Schoolmaster and his Son"-actually a personal and historical relation in autobiographical form. The book, which has been very popular in Germany, records the adventures of Gast and his son Valentine, who, after several years' military service under Gustavus Adolphus and others, returns home broken in health and dies in his father's arms, a Christian in hope and faith. The narrative portion of this work, chiefly in Valentine's letter describing the campaign, is truthful and spirited. The book is so well translated as to read like an "Arctic Rovings : or, the Adventures of Bedford Boy on Sea and Land, by Daniel Weston Hall," is published at Boston, for the benefit of the author, now an invalid, and is on sale at T. B. Peterson's. Hall left New Bedford on a three years' whaling voyage, at the age of fifteen, in the year 1856; undergoes the usual vicissitudes of that way of life ; deserts his ship, with a companion, on the coast of Siberia, in October 1858, where they pass two years, and is finally rescued by a New Bedford vessel, and reaches home in June 1860. Young people, who revel in the adventures of Robinson Crusoe, will be charmed with the Arctic Rovings. A mere catch-penny, albeit issued by such respectable publishers as Rudd & Carleton of New York, is a 12mo volume, printed on very thick paper

Out of 260 pages of print-small pages of large type-less than a dozen are occupied with a very slight sketch of Lyon'slife before the outbreak of the Rebellion. All of the remainder of the volume is made up of extracts from newspaper correspondents, despatches, anti-Douglas leading articles, in a Kansas paper. during the presidential campaign of 1860, and details of funeral ceremonies. the opinion that, he had done right, and said that, right or wrong, these men had to be secured ; and if he had done wrong, he could no more than be cashiered for it. Arrival of Captain Taylor at Washington. WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.-Captain Taylor, who has arrived here with despatches, reports that when the San Jacinto stopped at Cienfuegos, the escape of Slidell and Mason was ascertained. Proceeding thence to the Bahamas, it was understood that they had taken passage on the 7th instant, on the British mail steamer Irent, plying between Vera Cruz, by way of Havana, to St. Thomas and Southampton. While the San Jacinto was in the narrowest part of the Bahamas channel, about twenty-feur miles to the westward, they met the packet, and, as usual in such cases, fired a shot across her bow and brought her to. Two boats were then sent to her, under the command of Lieut. Fairfax, who boarded the packet and arrested Mason and Slidell, who were personally known to him. They at first objected to being removed without the employment of force for that purpose. However, they were soon after removed without further trouble, and conveyed to the San Mesers. Eustis and McFarland were also brought on board, and they are all now on their way to New York. The packet had no other flag save her own-that of Great Britain. were not molested, and were therefore left to pursue their journey. The official despatches are voluminous,"and include several accounts of the capture, together with the protest of Messrs. Slidell and Mason being taken from a British ship. The Manner of the Arrest of Messrs. Mason and Slidell. The manner of the arrest of Messrs. Mason and The manner of the arrest of Messrs. Mason and Slidell appears to have gratified the remains of Se-cession amongst us not a little, from the hopes en-gendered on the part of these enemies of their country that it may lead to a war with England! It only shows the revengeful spirit that actuates the hercsy, forgetful, as it makes them, that they would not be exempt from the inflictions of a con-mon evil. But let them not comfort themselves in such wise. Let them remember a case, somewhat such wise. Let them remember a case, somewhat parallel, where General Jackson entered Spanish territory in the olden time in search of the enemies of the nation, seized on a fortress and hoisted over it the American flag, an act justified by the Go-vernment afterwards, and which did not produce a war with Span; and although General Jackson executed two British subjects found there as ene-mies of our sountry, England, although angry, did not go to war about that. So let them try for com-fort somewhere else. fort somewhere else. fort somewhere else. Since the above was written further intelligence puts a somewhat different face upon the arrest of Messrs Mason and Slidell. It appears these par-tics were taken from on board the British steamer Fingal. The Fingal cleared from Greenoek about the 15th of October for "Madeira and the Coast of the county. the 15th of October for "Madeira and the Coast of Africa." Her cargo consisted of 11,341 rifles, 400,000 cartridges, 500 sabres, "a quantity of wreught leather belts," seven tons of shell, and four pieces of artillery. The London Post, the organ of Lord Palmerston, in noticing the depar-ture of the vessel, says: "African 'trade guns' are not usually rifles, and it is just possible that our Greenock contemporary has, by a slip of the pon, substituted 'Mancira and the West Coast of Africa' for the Southern Coast of North America," The Fingal ran into Bermuda where the Confederate steamer, and then started to rethe confederate steamer trasterile was, indisterred her cargo to that steamer, and then started to re-turn to England with Messrs. Slidell and Mason. If these are the true facts in the case, they will have an important bearing upon it. The Fingat was undoubtedly engaged in illicit trade, and England, under the circumstances, will not have much to complain of.—Baltimore American.

Pillow, and Chentham, the slaughter of the flying Federals being great. But it was when they reached their bonts and embarked on the L. M. Kennett, supported by their gunboats, that the batchery was most terrific. Packed together on the boat, lying at the shore, in dense masses, Smith's regiment poured on them for half an hour, from a distance of only eighty yards, an incessant fire. An immonse number were killed and wounded, the gutters around the boat filled with torrents of blood, which crimsoned the river ground for a considerable distance and the deeks so slippery that the mon could scarcely stand. The battle throughout was exceedingly fierce. The fire on Pillow's force in the first instance was tremendous. The Federals fought with unusual bravery. They were picked men—the very flower of the forces on the Mississippi—their best marks-men. Only our superior generalship and the des-perate courage of our men gave us the victory. 12: This will be the last week during which General This will be at the head of this department. Sherman will be at the head of this department. General Buell will assume the administrative on Monday next, should his arrival, which is expected on Saturday, not be unavoidably dalayêd. In re-tiring from the position which he has been filling, General Sherman goes into the field and to more active duty, and it is not unlikely that he is deter-mined to seak work not only for bimself but for bin settier duty, and it is not unlikely that he is deter-mined to seek work not only for himself, but for his men. He will assume control of the main army in the field, and push forward to active operations. The indications are that winter will find our army engaged in a campaign far south of Green river. The advanced positions lately assumed by Generals Evittenden and Thomas demand a similar move-ment on the part of General McGook. To reader this possible, large reinforcements are being hur-ried forward, and an effort at the concentration of our three armies on Buckner will be made, if pos-sible, before Zollicoffer can get ready to move for-ward again from Cumberland Gap. The Kentucky regiments are to be employed in relieving com-plete regiments from the guarding of such points as New Haven, Lebanon, Lebanon Junction, Elizabethown, Salt river mouth, &c., and those better prepared to engage the rebels are to be Junction, Elizabethtown, Salt river mouth, &c., and those better prepared to engage the rebels are to be forwarded to the advance posts. It is not probable that the rebels will winter in Kentucky south of Green river. If they succeed in gaining a victory over Gen. Sherman and his Western boys, they may find rest north of that stream. But that there is any probability of such a victory, I doubt. Gen. Sherman. I am inclined to suspect, is determined to take advantage of Gen. Buckner, and fight only an take advantage of Gen. Gen. Sherman Engaging in a "Naval Expedition."

The Louisville correspondent of the Chicage Tribune, under date of November 12th, says :

Gen. Sherman is engaged at this time in fitting out a "great naval expedition," whose destination is as secret as was that under command of his name-sake. The "fleet" will consist of several of our largest Southern trade steamboats-of sufficient largest Southern trade steamboats—of sufficient capacity to carry comfortably 1,000 men each. The commissary department is now engaged in sup-plying the boats with a sufficiency of food. What force will be sent on them, or in what direction, is not known. None of the boats employed in this move-ment can be floated in any of the inland waters of Kentucky, with the exception of the Lower Cum-berland or Tennessee. I suspect—I have no defi-nite information—that the purpose is to send men and supplies up the Tennessee river.

The Cumberland Gap Expedition.

and supplies up the Tennessee river. The Cumberland Gap Expedition. The same correspondent, writing about the ope-rations of the Cumberland Gap expedition, says : Louisville, Nov. 11, 1861. The movements of the brigade of General Schköhff have been somewhat bewildering, being greatly at variance with what I was assured was. the plan of the campaign in eastern Kentucky. Two of the regiments composing this brigade were thrown hastily forward and immediately in the rear of the regiments composing this brigade were thrown hastily forward and immediately in the rear of the regiments composing this begade were thrown hastily forward and fall back to those at Cumberland Gap. But no sooner had this been accomplished then the rest of the brigade to Somerset. Here the brigade went into campon the 5th inst., while a battalion of Col. Woodford's regi-ment went forward to Monticello, and subsequently to Albany, to ascertain the position to which Col. Stauaton had fallen back. The fact of the re-from the advance made by Col. Grider from Colum-bia a the same time, that the krigade marched to a bave taken place on Friday last. I have no de-finite information of the fact, but am led to believe from the advance made by Col. Grider from Colum-bia a the same time, that the krigade marched to Albany on the Sth inst. Col. Grider has a force of 1,400 men, and has been in camp at Columbia, Adair county, until within a few days past. Many of the Union men, driven out of Monroe, Allen, Cumbérland and Clinton consties, by Staunton, have joined Grider at Columbia, and being armed, will swell his ranks to about 2,000 men. This force, effecting a conjunction with Gen.Schoepff's brigade, will make his force a formidable one in the rear of Buckner, and an overpowering one as opposed to Staunton's. The New Orleans Bulletin says that an improved battering ram, combining the valuable properties of the Vinans steamer and the Manassas, is in course of construction in that city. Its cost will not exceed fifty thousand dollars.

Affairs in St. Mary Parish, Louisiana. The Franklin (La.) Register has the following : So far, we have not been visited with the slightes frost, and from present appearances we expect none for several weeks to come. It is said that the Lincoln blockading fast has beft our coast for parts unknown. We are glad to hear it, and hope that we shall never have the task hear it, and nope that we shall have nave the task of announcing its return. A large number of our planters have commenced sugar making. We are sorry to least that the yield, owing to the very unfavorable weather for maturing the cane, is not as good as should be; and the quality, too, owing to the same cause, is not the best. But we now have fair prospects for good weather for the future, and we foel sure that the yield will greatly improve, and the quality slso. We do not yet despair of a very large sugar crop this season—the largest ever made in the parish— say between 50,000,000 and 55,000,000 of pounds, equal to about 45,000 or 50,000 hogsheads of 1,100 pounds each, which, even at four cents per pound, will produce an aggregate of $2,300,000, leaving the molasses out of the count. The value of the agricultural product of St. Mary, this season, may be put down, in round numbers, at $3,000,000 at the lowest figure. of announcing its return. the lowest figure.

Virginia. It is stated that this force will number 20,000 or more men, and that the purpose of the commandant appears to be to push forward into Kentucky, and not remain during the winter shut up in the mountains. Indeed, it is to be suspected that the pushing forward into the State is a neces-sity they cannot well avoid. The country in the immediate vicinity of the Gap cannot subsist one-half the force said to be there, for a winter.
